Uncover Plot to Assassinate Nixon

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Plans for a presidential motorcade through New Orleans were cancelled today after the Secret Service said it had uncovered a "possible conspiracy to assassinate the President" during his visit to the city

President Nixon flew here from Florida to address the 7th annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, his first public appearance in six weeks.

Before he left, a White House spokesman said the scheduled motorcade through the city was being abandoned as a result of an investigation by the Secret Service, the FBI and the New Orleans Police Department.

New Orleans police were asked by the Secret Service to arrest a former policeman who was described as armed and extremely dangerous.

Police declined to say whether the former policeman, identified as Edward M. Gaudet, alias "Punchy," was wanted in connection with the President's visit.

The call to pick up Gaudet went out shortly after it was reported that New Orleans Police Supt. Clarence Giarrusso's car and a policeman's uniform had been stolen.

Gaudet was arrested on Aug. 14, 1970 when Nixon drove through the French quarter in a motorcade. He was charged with attempting to desecrate a flag by burning it and throwing it on the President's car.

He had been off the police force nearly three years at the time of that arrest. On July 25, 1967, he was "allowed to resign" after being involved in an incident during which a firearm was discharged during a fight.

Giarrusso's car was taken about 2 a.m. from the driveway of his suburban home. It was recovered about 7 a.m. near Lake Pontchartrain, across the city.

As originally planned, the motorcade would have been a short five blocks along Canal Street to the Rivergate convention center.

During the weekend, radio and television advertisements urged families to turn out for the motorcade and a sizeable noontime crowd was expected.

Nixon's speech was to be his first since he addressed the nation last Wednesday on Watergate and said it was "time to get on with the urgent business of our nation."

Aides said the President would make a plea for continuing America's strong defense posture and for peace and stability in Indochina.

It also is the chief executive's first speech since last Wednesday's television address on Watergate, in which he said it was time "to get on with the urgent business of our nation."

White House aides said the President would make a plea for continuing America's strong defense posture in the world and for stability and peace in Southeast Asia when he appears before the VFW audience of some 4,500 persons.

His motorcade from New Orleans International Airport to the downtown Rivergate Convention Center near the French Quarter had been expected to attract a noontime crowd.

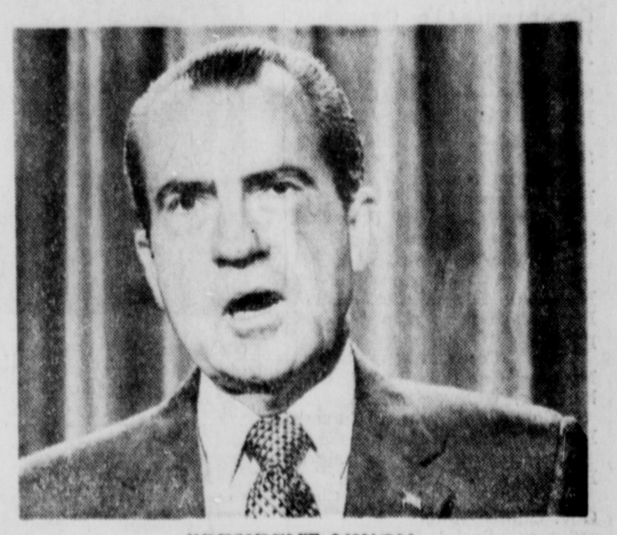

Nixon has not made a speech in public since he went to Kansas City for the swearing in of FBI Chief Clarence M. Kelley on his way home from California July 9.

Once again, the President is making a brief stopover visit. This time, he is on his way to the Western White House for a California stay that is expected to last through Labor Day.

He is making it an occasion, though, for displaying the top aides of his Watergate-reorganized White House staff.

National Security Adviser Henry A. Kissinger was coming from Washington to join the presidential party in New Orleans and also to receive a VFW award of his own for foreign policy achievements.

Traveling aboard the Spirit of '76 from Florida with the President and Mrs. Nixon will be Nixon's new chief of staff, Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

FIREFIGHTER TRIES TO CONTAIN HOT SPOT IN FIRE IN THE STANISLAUS NATIONAL FOREST NEAR SONORA. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Forest Fires Destroy 110,000 Acres

By United Press International

An army of nearly 10,000 firefighters today battled the worst outbreak of forest fires in the Western states in decades, but officials said the situation was improving.

Of 35 major forest and brush fires that broke out in eight Western states and Canada since last Wednesday, only 11 were reported still out of control.

At least 110,000 acres of timber and grasslands has so far been burned and authorities estimated damage at more than $60 million.

"Most fire managers in the Northwest feel this is the worst season ever," said John Hafterson, head of the National Interagency Fire Center in Boise, Idaho.

Hafterson said 80 per cent of the federal firefighting forces had been brought into the battle against the flames. Dozens of commercial airliners and Air Force C130 Hercules transport planes shuttled the men in from nearly every state in the union.

Forest fires still burned out of control in Northern California, Oregon, Nevada, Idaho and Montana. Earlier blazes in Washington, Utah and Wyoming were reported controlled.

About 6,500 firefighters were actually on the fire lines, with another 2,500 men in support crews. Another 300 were on the way from the Eastern United States plus 300 more from Alaska.

One fire in western Montana at Caribou Ridge burned 2,000 acres in the Kootenai National Forest, then leaped the border into Canada where it burned 6,000 acres before being contained.

National Guard troops backed up firefighters on lines in Oregon and Idaho.

Helicopters with huge buckets slung over them scooped 250-gallon loads of water from rivers to pour on the flames.

Fleets of World War II bombers flew almost treetop to drop chemical retardants on the flames. Two of them crashed during the weekend in California, but no one was injured.

An experimental Air Force C130, a giant cargo plane that was the backbone of troop transport in Indochina, was used for the first time to drop retardants on fires in Montana.

Fires in northeastern and southern Oregon blew out of control Sunday evening behind winds of up to 30 miles an hour and rising temperatures.

A 2,200 acre blaze was "burning like oil" in steep rugged country on the Oregon side of Hells Canyon near the Oregon-Idaho border.

Laos Coup Fails, Leader Is Killed

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)— The former commander of the Laotian air force tried to overthrow the neutralist government of Prime Minister Prince Souvanna Phouma today but the predawn coup attempt was crushed and its leader killed.

Souvanna went on the official radio shortly before noon and announced: "The government of his majesty the king is still functioning, including all of its ministers."

The U. S. Embassy said the leader of the abortive coup, identified as Brig. Gen. Thao Ma, died in the crash of the propeller-driven T28 fighter-bomber he had been flying over Vietiane as the overthrow attempt was in progress.

Ma's followers were reported to have fled back the half a mile across the Mekong River into Thailand from where they began the unsuccessful drive.

The 72-year-old Souvanna said in his radio broadcast that "the government will deal seriously with the rebels to maintain the kingdom's independence, neutrailty, sovereignty and unity."

A U. S. Embassy spokesman described the situation as "normal."

The coup bid lasted less than seven hours, although Ma's forces managed briefly to seize Vietiane's Wattay Airport, the radio station, national bank and surround Souvanna's official residence with tanks.

Earlier reports of the attempted coup said the situation was "fluid" and "confused" but diplomatic sources said the overthrow attempt had failed.

Insurgent forces begin offensive in Cambodia. Story on page 24.

"The good guys won," said one diplomatic source contacted earlier in Vientiane by telephone from Saigon. "It seems like it's all over but the shouting."

Ma had led his forces across the Mekong River into Vientiane from Thailand less than half a mile from the downtown section of the Laotian capital.

Propeller-driven T28 fighter-bombers strafed the Giani Mo military base south of Vientiane at dawn, killing at least two persons, authorities said. Giani Mo is headquarters of the government's 5th Military Region.

Tanks surrounded the Vientiane residence of the 74-year-old Souvanna but he and his cabinet were reported to have set up headquarters at Giani Mo.

In Washington, the State Department said it had only "fragmentary" information but reported that Phouma was not under control of the insurgents and that all U.S. citizens in Laos were safe.

Contacted by phone from Saigon, U.S. sources in Vientiane confirmed the coup attempt but said Souvanna "is safe."

Ma's forces seized control of both the military and civilian sections of Wattay Airport and also controlled part of the official radio station calling themselves the "Peoples and Armed Forces Revolutionary Committee."

Sources close to Souvanna said loyalist units were trying to recapture the airport and the situation was described as "confused."

Ma, wearing a blue and white scarf, circled Vientiane in a T28 plane as the coup attempt got under way.

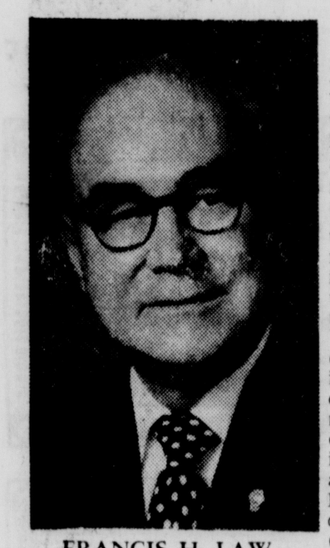

He had been exiled in Thailand since he led an unsuccessful coup in the mid-1960s. He and his followers staged today's attempted overthrow because they felt the Souvanna government was giving too many concessions to the pro-Communist Pathet Lao in peace talks aimed at setting up a new coalition regime in Loas.

Communist forces have been at war with the royalists since 1954.

Francis Law New City Treasurer

FRANCIS H. LAW

KINGSTON — Mayor Francis R. Koenig has appointed Francis H. (Tim) Law, a retired operations manager with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, as Kingston city treasurer, effective Aug. 27.

Koenig said Law has agreed to "accept the responsibility of reorganizing the treasurer's office and will continue to serve in that capacity until the end of the year.

"I selected Mr. Law because of his vast knowledge in administration and many, many years of managerial experience," Koenig said. "The reorganization of the treasurer's office is most important, and the background and work experience of both Mr. Law and the new principal account clerk, Mr. Hafemann (Charles Hafemann of Hyde Park, appointed last Tuesday) will prove most beneficial to this department."

Law, 65, a resident of Stony Run, retired in February from AT&T after more than 45 years with the company. At the time of his retirement, Law was operations manager of the 30-man Long Lines Division Plant in Rosendale. Previous to that he was operations manager at the Newburgh plant, headquarters for the Sage Combat Center of the 1st Air Force which was closed when the Air Force pulled out of Stewart Field. AT&T in this area is involved primarily in providing long distance communications service for the Defense Department.

Law is a past president of the Newburgh Lions Club and is presently a member of the Kingston Lions Club. He is also a former member of the Board of Directors of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross and both he and his wife, the former Irene McCloskey, are members of the board of directors of the Children's Rehabilitation Center. The Laws are the parents of three daughters; they have six grandchildren.

Koenig said today that with the appointment of Law (and Hafemann) he now has "the combination I'm looking for in that office." Law has the managerial experience, Koenig said, and Hafemann has the accounting background. Asked if Law had any accounting background, Koenig answered, "I'm not looking for that. I'm looking for managerial experience. Accounting I've got with Charlie Hafemann."

Hafemann, a former certified public accountant, has worked as finance officer in both the Kingston and Newburgh Code Enforcement programs. He replaces Principal Account Clerk John H. Houghtaling who was arrested on June 5 on charges of larceny in the city treasure's office. Law replaces Thomas R. Lyle, who resigned as city treasurer on Aug. 6 for "personal reasons." Lyle had been appointed city treasurer by Koenig on Dec. 29, 1972 for a two-year term. Law will fill out that term which expires on Dec. 31 of this year.

Koenig said he will meet with Law and Hafemann on Friday to discuss new office procedures in an office where three persons have been arrested since June 5 on charges of larceny. In addition to Houghtaling, Gary Stafford, a former clerk, has also been arrested, charged with grand larceny. Another clerk, Fred Manuel, was also arrested but charges of petit larceny were dismissed by the Ulster County Grand Jury for lack of evidence.

At Lloyd Nuclear Plant Site

Meteorological Studies Planned

HIGHLAND — The New York State Atomic and Space Development Authority (ASDA) announced today that, as part of its environmental studies of a controversial potential nuclear power plant site in the Town of Lloyd, a year of meteorological studies will be begun shortly.

The studies will utilize a monitoring tower to be erected on a parcel of land recently purchased for that purpose by the Authority in the southern portion of the study area, about a mile north Route 299.

The environmental engineering firm of Dames and Moore will conduct the studies.

Data on wind speed and direction, humidity, solar radiation, temperature, and precipitation will be among the information gathered, according to the ASDA.

A mobile data processing facility will be located at the base of the monitoring tower and will house a computer and other equipment necessary for analyzing and recording the data.

The tower will reportedly be approximately 300 feet in height.

The meteorological study is part of a program of environmental studies at the site initiated by the ASDA during the past year.

Other studies previously announced include a geological study, aquatic field studies, and site development and community planning studies.

The firm of Dames and Moore is conducting the geological study. The firm of Quirk, Lawler and Matusky is conducting the aquatic studies. Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress is conducting the site development and community planning studies.

The ASDA said further studies will be announced shortly.

Recently a committee of two IBM engineers, appointed by Lloyd Town Supervisor Louis Foscaldi, began amassing information needed by town officials to pursue questions being raised about the proposed atomic power plant.

A number of area residents have recently been raising questions about the safety of such plants.

John Schlosser and Clark Kurtz, two IBM engineers who reside in Highland, were appointed to gather and sift through information about nuclear power plants, and to present a report to the town board prior to the public hearing on the plant the ASDA is expected to hold in September.

Foscaldi has said previously that the power plant had generated "an abnormal amount of mail." That mail had been "all negative," according to Foscaldi, who said much of the mail was coming from the Hudson Valley Citizens Watch on Nuclear Safety (HVCWNS), a group based in New Paltz which has come out in opposition to the proposed plant.

Planned Vocational Center

BOCES Leasing Bids Too High

NEW PALTZ — It may be back to the drawing board for BOCES and its proposed new vocational center after bids for the project were opened recently.

Three bids were submitted, and all three came in at considerably more than BOCES is apparently willing to pay.

BOCES has proposed that a private builder construct a 30,000 square foot vocational center, and then lease the facility to BOCES for a five-year period, with an option for a five year lease renewal.

The lowest apparent bid was submitted by the Poseidon Construction Co. of New Paltz, which proposed a five-year rental fee that would increase each year. The rent for each of the five years would be $157,500 for the first year, $175,000 for the second year, $192,500 for the third year, $210,000 for the fourth year and $227,500 for the fifth year. The total rent for the five-year period would be $962,500. The site would be located in Stone Ridge.

The highest bid was submitted by Elwood Eastman of Kingston, who proposed construction of the facility on a site in Bloomington. The yearly rental would be $294,784, or $1,473,920 for the five-year leasing period.

The next highest bid was submitted by John Shults Jr. of Kingston, who said he would lease the building to BOCES for $250,000 a year, or $1.25 million over five years. He proposed a site in the Town of Marbletown.

Dr. Jack L. Roosa, executive officer, said that the matter is further complicated by the fact that some specifications were not met in the three bids submitted to BOCES.

Dr. Roosa said the bids would be studied by BOCES and that a final determination may be made at Thursday's meeting. But he indicated that each of the bids submitted was much higher than BOCES had anticipated.

The plan to lease a building constructed especially for BOCES' needs was necessitated by the voter's rejection of BOCES' $7.5 million building proposal in 1972. A public referendum is required for any BOCES building project, but BOCES does not need public approval to lease a building.

Dr. Roosa said he is not sure what course BOCES will now take, but indicated that it is possible BOCES will advertise for new bids.

Two Stolen Cars Recovered

HIGHLAND — Separate traffic checks in Ulster County Sunday and early today led to the recovery of two stolen cars and the arrest of five New York City residents.

Three men were charged with criminal possession of stolen property Sunday night when Highland troopers ran a file check on their 1965 Ford Mustang and discovered that it had been stolen earlier from a Lowell, Mass., man.

Two 15-year-old boys, meanwhile, were arrested on the Thruway early today when troopers determined that their car had been stolen from New York City last week.

Police said that none of the arrests were related to the stolen car ring that was uncovered in Ulster County last week.

The three men arrested Sunday on Route 9W in the Town of Lloyd were identified as 27-year-old Carlos Santiago, 37-year-old Louis Rios and 28-year-old Angel Arroyo, all of New York City.

All three were charged with second degree criminal possession of stolen property. Police said a check of the car also revealed a loaded .22 caliber revolver and a small quantity of marijuana. Charges of criminal possession of a dangerous weapon and sixth degree possession of dangerous drugs were also lodged against the occupants.

They were arraigned before Town of New Paltz Justice Rexford Schneider and committed to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bail each pending further court action on Friday.

Thruway state police arrested two juveniles at about 6:30 a.m. today three miles north of Kingston in the northbound lane of the superhighway.

Police said the car driven by the teenagers apparently spun out of control and crashed into a guardrail. While investigating the mishap, troopers ran a routine file check on the 1964 Chevrolet Nova, and determined that the car had been stolen from New York City on August 14.

Police said the teenagers will be petitioned to Family Court in New York City. Their names were not released.

Open Burning Ban Is Lifted

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A ban on open burning in 13 Southeastern New York counties, including New York City and Long Island, imposed by the State Environmental Conservation Department Friday, was finally lifted at noon Sunday.

A spokesman said Commissioner Henry L. Diamond removed the restrictions on the burning of open refuse or debris after a high pressure system with low wind velocity moved out of the area. Such a condition, he said, could trap contaminants in the air causing haze and making breathing difficult for some persons.

The burning ban did not apply to small backyard fires such as those for picnics or barbeques.

The ban, imposed Friday, was set to expire at midnight Saturday, but was extended an additional 12 hours before being removed.

The area affected included the five counties in New York City, as well as Nassau and Suffolk Counties on Long Island and the Hudson Valley counties of Rockland, Westchester, Orange, Putnam, Dutchess and Ulster.

Emergency Rescue Vehicle For Rhinebeck Fire Dept.

RHINEBECK — The Rhinebeck Fire Department started out last year to raise $20,000 for a new modular ambulance.

To date it has raised about $38,000 and now plans to add an emergency rescue vehicle to support the ambulance. It will be built by Young Fire Equipment Co., and will closely resemble the vehicle used on the television show "Emergency!"

Designed on a four-wheel drive chassis to carry heavy equipment for rescue operations and to supply 110 volt electrical power at the rescue scene, its primary job will be to provide lighting, carry heavy equipment such as [illegible]tion saws, bolt cutters, h[illegible]olic jacks and porta-powe[illegible] self contained breathing [illegible]ment.

The vehicle will have the additional feature of being able to extinguish fires with a 250 gallon per minute midship mounted pump and a capacity of 250 gallons. The off road ability of the vehicle is expected to make it invaluable at the scene of any rescue or fire.

And its use will eliminate the need of assigning a large piece of fire equipment at auto accidents and rescue operations. The new concept of fast moving attak type rescue and fire fighting gives the Rhinebeck Fire Department far greater mobility.

Regarding the modular ambulance, the committee of the RFD informs the public that it must wait an additional 120 days for delivery from the National Coach factory in Knightstown, Ind. And the committee thanked Rhinebeck citizans for their "generosity, compassion and faith . . ."

According to a Greene County medical examiner, Eddie Reyes died of "respiratory failure." The man was camping at Devil's Tombstone in Greene County when he became ill, and was taken to the hospital by his two companions, 23-year-old Joseph Lorino and 27-year-old Kevin Conway, both of the Bronx.

JOSEPH LaFERA

LaFera Calls for Split Tax Bills

HIGH FALLS — A proposal for a semi-annual collection of county property taxes has been made by Joseph LaFera, Democratic candidate for Ulster County Legislature in new Dist. 5.

"I see no reason why the county can't send out split tax bills like the City of Kingston does," LaFera said. "Such a policy could ease the tax burden on many low income families and persons living on fixed incomes. They could certainly use the money or draw interest on it for the months involved," he explained.

LaFera also questioned why the County Legislature has such a large cash surplus.

He said he definitely favors a county tax map, which is currently being compiled and would also support a complete reappraisal of all property in the county so that everyone pays their fair share.

He said that as a legislator he would represent people and not special interest groups. He is a candidate for four legislative seats in the new Dist. 5 which include Olive, Marbletown, Rochester and Hurley.

LaFera has served as chairman of the Marbletown Democratic Committee for the past two years and ran a close race for town assessor in Marbletown in 1971.

He also served on the Rosendale Village Board for two terms and was instrumental in working for property tax deductions for senior citizens at that time.

The 36-year-old LaFera is an IBM employe and a graduate of LaSalle Academy, New York City and attended Manhattan College. He has been a member of St. Peter's Church Parish Council, and helped set up the Rondout Fish Program.

A four-year resident of High Falls, he has resided in Ulster County for 19 years. He and his wife, the former Marguerite Hall of Rosendale have a daughter, Jill.

Declines Another Term

RHINEBECK — Kenneth Stewart, active in Dutchess County government since 1967, has decided not to seek another term on the Board of Representatives.

Stewart, who has represented Rhinebeck and neighboring towns in Northern Dutchess, is one of the few county representatives remaining from the original board.

And he is in the same district, XXIX, as another Republican who is expected to seek reelection, Clyde Chase. Recently passed reapportionment in the county threw both together, Stewart from the Village of Rhinebeck and Chase from Pine Plains.

Stewart retired two years ago as principal of the Staatsburg Elementary School in the Hyde Park system, a position he held for 37 years.

Institutes Civil Action

CATSKILL — Alleging that copyrighted songs have been performed at the Friar Tuck Inn of Catskill without authorization and in violation of the U.S. Copyright Act, Broadcast Music, Inc. (BMI) of New York City and affiliated publishers have instituted civil action against Friar Tuck Inn of the Catskills, Inc. in U.S. District Court.

According to BMI, six songs are involved in the suit.

According to federal copyright law, music can not be performed at an establishment without the permission of the copyright holder. BMI acts as the licensing organization for copyright holders, and will license establishments to perform songs in return for royalty payments.

The Friar Tuck Inn held no license at the time the six songs were allegedly performed there, according to BMI.

Beef on the Hoof Auction

By United Press International

It's amateur week at the Cow Palace in San Francisco.

People who like their beef, but can't get it in the supermarket, have flocked to a public auction of feedlot cattle to make bumbling bids for beef on the hoof.

In other news about food prices, a consumer organization accused major canners of holding supplies off the map until price controls are lifted. Del Monte Corp. said consumers were hoarding canned goods in hopes of beating a price increase.

The Cow Palace auction continues through Thursday. It drew about 200 persons, most of them inexperienced in auctioning, on opening day Saturday.

In the first hour, only 21 head were sold. Most of the bidders simply did not know how to bid.

"If this was a professional cattle auction, we'd have 3,000 head sold by now," Mike Domich, co-owner of Marks Cattle Co. of Zamora, Calif., said.

The purchasers paid about the same as they would for supermarket beef—if they could get any. The buyers apparently are trying to insure eating beef while supplies are down and avoid paying higher prices when price controls are lifted next month.

A dressed steer yields about 400 pounds of edible meat.

The Armour Meat Co. had representatives at the Cow Palace the buyers could contact to make arrangements to ship their cattle to a slaughter house.

The Food Action Campaign asked the government to investigate charges that canners were holding their products off the market.

"No doubt," said Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary James McHale, a spokesman for the group, "they will use these shortages to argue for price increases in stage two of Phase IV, which is due on Sept. 12. Then they will release their hoarded goods for sale to consumers at higher prices and they will enjoy still higher prices."

McHale made his comments in a speech to be given today at a regional AFL-CIO convention in Baltimore.

The group has asked the Federal Trade Commission to investigate and break up large food canning companies, McHale said.

In San Francisco, James Schmuck, group vice president of Del Monte Corp., said hoarders hoping to beat a price increase had depleted stocks of the company.

"There's absolutely no reason for consumers to hoard," he said.

State Buys 900 Acres of Land In Adirondack Forest Preserve

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The state's purchase of nearly 900 acres of private land in the Adirondack Forst Preserve, at an average cost of about $1,000 an acre, has been announced by Environmental Conservation Commissioner Henry L. Diamond.

The land, located in Essex, Herkimer and Hamilton Counties, was purchased with $895,250 from the 1972 Environmental Quality Bond Issue, Diamond's office said Sunday night.

Some real estate brokers in the sparsely populated area, however, charged that the price agreed to by the state was well in excess of market values.

The largest parcel of land involved was 612.7 acres in the Herkimer County town of Webb which cost $783,000, or an average of about $1,300 an acre.

The tract, located north of the hamlet of Eagle Bay, includes all of the 118-acre Moss Lake and was operated as a summer camp for girls before it was acquired by the Nature Conservancy.

Richard Sehlmeyer, a Lake Luzerne realtor, said, "This is just another example of the state using the taxpayers' money to buy land so that the public can't use it."

"Right now I can sell them 2,900 acres of the same kind of land for $250 an acre," Schlmeyer said. "We're talking about a price of $725,000 and I don't care what kind of houses or development the land has on it."

W. E. Cusack, an Eagle Bay realtor, was less critical of the price paid for the land, but he said, "Unless you had terrific drag with the state, I'm sure a developer would have trouble developing land at that price and ending up with money in his pocket."

"But, if the state didn't put too many hurdles in the way, it could be well worth the money," Cusack said.

A third area realtor, Walter Curtis of Old Forge, said "If it could be developed, it could be worth that price."

However, Curtis said the purchase by the state to preserve the area as a natural, recreational area, "sems unnecessary when you consider that it is already classified as a rural area."

Curtis referred to the recently adopted private land use plan for the Adirondacks, which he said would restrict the number of buildings which could be built on the land to 10 per square mile.

"Who are you going to get to give you $64,000 for a building lot?" Curtis said.

Diamond said, "This kind of limited acquisition, together with reasonable regulation of private land, will enable us to preserve the unique climate of the Forest Preserve for future generations."

More Bodies Being Sought Along Galveston Sand Dunes

GALVESTON, Tex (UPI) — Two couples told police they think they saw men who looked like the persons responsible for the murders of 27 boys bury some more bodies among the shifting sand dunes of Galveston Island.

The tips sent police out on the island Saturday digging with shovels, but Police Chief D. K. Lack said the dunes along the Gulf of Mexico are so numerous and so high the hunt was being delayed until a road grader could be brougt to the location today.

"We can't overlook the possibility that there are more bodies," Lack said. "We can't just ignore it."

The couples said the persons burying what could have been bodies looked like Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, David Owen Brooks, 18, and Dean Arnold Corll, 33. Henley and Brooks have already led police to three burial grounds where 27 bodies were unearthed.

Henley and Brooks have been indicted in connection with some of the murders. Henley told police he shot Corll in self defense Aug. 8.

According to Houston homicide detective, K. D. Porter, one couple said they saw two men carrying a long, wrapped package across the dunes last February. They said a third man, with "long, blond hair," was with them. Brooks has shoulder-length blond hair.

The witness, identified as C. C. Abernathy, told Porter he remembered telling his wife at the time: "Hey, baby, somebody's burying a body."

According to the detective, Abernathy said the two men carrying the bundle resembled pictures of Henly and Corll.

The other couple told Porter they were searching for a campsite on the beach last June and drove to where two cars were parked. They said a hole was dug in the sand and they could see a long wrapped bundle.

They said one of the men, one resembling Henley, came toward them with "a menacing expression," and so they left. They also said a man who looked like Corll was there and another boy, "with long hair" was present. But they couldn't identify this person as Brooks.

Guilty in 10 Slayings

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (UPI) —Herbert V. Mullin, 26, a high school honor student who turned to drugs and mysticism and believed murder was an "act of love," stood up calmly to be manacled Sunday after a jury pronounced him guilty of 10 slayings.

Defense attorney James Jackson termed the verdict, which came after 14½ hours of deliberations, "as insane as Mullin is."

Mullin, wearing an orange prison jumpsuit, said nothing and was led quietly to his jail cell to await a Sept. 18 sentencing on the findings of two counts of first degree murder and eight of second degree murder.

"What was in their minds was fear," Jackson said of the six-man, six-woman jury. "They were afraid he was going to get out and kill somebody—which is not an unreasonable consideration."

Mullin admitted slaying 13 persons in a three-week period during which he received "telepathic messages" that the killings were needed as "human sacrifices" to prevent a cataclysmic earthquake in California. He was charged with 10 killings and entered an insanity plea.

During his 12-day trial, Mullin took the stand and described in detail how he shot to death a mother and her two young sons, four teen-agers living in a mountainside camp, a drug dealer and his wife and an elderly fisherman. He also admitted but was not charged with stabbing and stomping a priest to death in a confessional and shooting two other persons.

Under California law, an appeal is automatically made on the murder convictions, for which he faces a life imprisonment with no chance of parole.

Both the prosecution and defense agreed that Mullin was mentally ill, but they argued over whether he was legally insane.

A psychiatrist at the trial said Mullin entered a period of bizarre behavior about three years ago and had been committed to four mental hospitals. It was during this period Mullin advanced the theory of "murder as an act of love," he said

Result of Bombing Halt

America's longest war was over with the end of bombing in Cambodia. American aircraft remain on station in Guam and Thailand, in case North Vietnam seizes the opportunity to launch massive attacks on South Vietnam. Even then, American retaliation would depend on President Nixon persuading Congress the peace agreement has been seriously violated, should North Vietnam launch a vast invasion south.

Meantime, Cambodia is left confused and mystified by the American bombing cessation. Why, when things are going badly for the government, would America stop the bombing which alone held off the forces of Prince Sihanouk's forces, the man deposed by Marshal Lon Nol, to whose aid the United States sent its air armada early this year.

Sihanouk, who had been ousted by Lon Nol, who was his strong man premier, has made such a strong comeback that he now threatens the Lon Nol government. So confident is he of returning to power, Sihanouk has refused to meet Henry Kissinger, President Nixon's national security advisor, since the time that Congress on June 30 ruled out all combat activity in Indochina after August 15.

President Nixon's grim prediction, when he signed the amendment ending the bombing, has come to pass. He then said the cutoff had undermined negotiations to get a settlement in Cambodia and he warned that "this abandonment of a friend" could have a profound impact in other countries such as Thailand, "which relied on the constancy and determination of the United States."

Knowledgeable Washington has already given Lon Nol only days before his government collapses. Sihanouk is regarded as certain to return to power. American transports are standing by to remove the 200 American embassy personnel, the 200 foreign newsmen, and the governmment personnel who choose safe passage out. A short-sighted Congress has opted an allout retreat as the last act of 12 years of war in Indochina — a tragic blow te our allies and our status in Southeast Asia. It could negate sacrifices there.

Agnew's Stance

"As I advised you many months ago, I wish in no way to impede your investigation. I have done nothing wrong. I have nothing to hide. And I have no desire save that justice be done speedily and efficiently. Accordingly, the records you request are now available to you."

That was the forthright way in which Vice President Agnew made his records as county executive of Baltimore and governor of Maryland available to U. S. Attorney George Beall, who is investigating allegations of extortion, bribery, tax fraud, and conspiracy that allegedly took place during Mr. Agnew's terms as county executive and briefly as governor.

Beyond his records, which Beall had asked to see, Agnew went further in his attempt to cooperate. Specifically, he offered to meet with Beall and his associates for a personal interview to answer any questions they may have.

There was only one reservation. Agnew said that in making his records available, he does not acknowledge that he or any grand jury have "any right to records of the Vice President. Nor do I acknowledge the propriety of any grand jury investigation of possible wrongdoing on the part of the Vice President so long as he occupies that office. These are difficult constitutional questions which need not at this moment be confronted."

In other words, while submitting his records and himself to questions on anything that happened before he was Vice President, Agnew reserves the constitutional right of the Vice President in office being immune to grand jury investigation. In this, he joins President Nixon in his statement that he can only be judged after he is impeached and removed from office. That is a "difficult question," as Agnew said, and so far as he is concerned, does not need to be confronted at this moment.

GIs BENEFITTED—"Wars are always remembered; veterans are often forgotten"—"but not in Illinois!" added Governor Daniel Walker, as he signed into law 10 veterans' benefit bills: including a POW bonus; dependents' scholarships; exemption from Illinois income tax liability for POWs or MIAs, and other benefits.

GOLD AND DOLLAR PULL—With the price of gold more than doubled in the last year, some holders of gold see the present time as opportune to take profits and shift into dollars. The fact that gold is declining in value and dollars continue to rise has a lot to do with the change.

Price Control 'Horror File'

WASHINGTON — With the end of most price controls, the Administration is heaping praise on itself for its few paltry victories on behalf of an inflation-weary public. But the Cost of Living Council's secret files are bulging with tales of unpublished failures.

Many of the folders are stuffed with outraged (and often unanswered) letters from Americans who find their food or footwear going up astronomically. But in one drawer is the "Horror File" of cases where strict controls backfired.

These are cases where letter-of-the-law controls drove small companies into near-bankruptcy killed competition that might have forced down prices, or swept willing workers out of their jobs.

The "Horror File," as it is called among Council executives, has come into our possession. The Council has used code-names like "Strongarm Detective Agency" or "Eagletonbutton Manufacturing" to hide the names of the 35 companies involved, and spokesmen refused flatly to identify the companies to us by name.

"Eagletonbutton," for example, is "an unprofitable manufacturer controlled by 'Thousandpercent, Inc.'" whose overall profits were near the federal ceiling. Thus, under law, "Eagletonbutton" could not increase its prices and get out of the red.

IGNORED REGULATIONS

"Strongarm Detective Agency" took the law into its own hands. Faced with low profits, it decided "to ignore the. . . regulations," says a Horror File memo. "The chances it will be audited are small, it reasons, and its accounting system and pricing policies are such that any violation would be difficult to unearth even in an audit."

"Sierra Motors," apparently Chrysler or American Motors, was "an automobile manufacturer facing serious losses. It had hoped for some relief when the big two increased their '73 prices. It would be eligible for price increases. . . but cannot now improve its position because of competition from the Big Two. . ."

The toll of controls on humanitarian business programs was evidenced at "Garner Computers," which had trained 10 disadvantaged apprentices for three years. "When they graduated from the training program," the memo notes, "the company was able to give them no more than a 5.5 per cent wage increase and the workers left for new employment."

"Moe Microdynamics" was an electronics firm pouring money into research "in order to meet emerging Japanese capability." Because it could not raise prices, research plans shuddered to a halt.

"Bareshelf" canned goods needed a price increase to keep up its inventory between harvests. But the increase was illegal, and "without these increases, it is almost certain to run out of inventory and lose shelf position and, with it, customer loyalty."

PENSION SCUTTLED

At "Peter Rabbit Dairies," the company decided to give workers a profit-sharing pension plan instead of a wage hike. But because this would mean an increase in real wages of 20 per cent the first year, "the company had to drop the plan."

The controls also led to ingenious evasions.

"Tablebottoms and Son" buys lumber products, but its supplier could not provide them at controlled prices. So "Tablebottoms" gave the supplier kickbacks by paying higher transportation costs.

"All Chiefs Company" got around the controls by changing job titles but not jobs. "Freedom Fashions" changed its clothing line slightly and jacked up prices. And "Micromeasure Mills" altered cuts of lumber microscopically, claimed to have a "new product" and raised prices.

All in all, the system was hampered by efforts of the Council "bureaucracy to seek to perpetuate itself," rules that "impeded" and "inhibited" recovery and expansion, and sloppy enforcement.

Footnote: Despite its tongue-in-cheek company "names," a Council official assured our reporter Mark Frazier that the Horror File was a serious effort by Council executive Secretary Hank Parritt to record some dangers of controls. Based on Phase II flaws, the memos disguised the company names so there would be no violation of anti-disclosure statues if the summary was ever discussed outside the Council, the spokesman said.

THE BAITING GAME — The Navy plans to test a new type of anti-submarine missile in full view of the Russian Mediterranean fleet.

Our Navy sources say one purpose of the Navy test appears to be challenge the Russians and thus heat up the arms race so the Navy can legitimately get more money for sophisticated weapons systems, the new missile, to be tested in a single destroyer, will become part of the "ASROC" system operating now on Sixth Fleet warships.

A Navy spokesman says generally such tests are held where foreigners cannot see them, but our Navy sources insist the out-of-sight policy is going to be deliberately violated in this case.

Inside Report

A Collision Course

WASHINGTON — The fact that several leaders of the powerful American-Jewish community discreetly — but bitterly — complained to Israeli ambassador Simcha Dinitz about Israel's skyjacking of a civilian Arab Airliner is harsh new evidence that Israel now risks becoming an acute embarrassment to her best friends here.

Some highly-placed American Jews, in fact, were quick to point to their outrage over Israel's decision once again to invade Lebanon's air space as proof that the American-Jewish community is no handmaiden of the state of Israel.

As one prominent Jewish leader, with close ties to the Nixon administration, told us (asking anonymity): "I have a sixth sense that Israel is getting too smart for her own good."

Yet, that ominous warning to the country which controls by far the most powerful military might anywhere in the Arab Middle East, thanks to American weapons, is only the beginning of the new round of troubles Israel now confronts here.

Far more significant is the fact, unreported until now, that President Nixon himself has suddenly come to realize that the old intimacy between the U.S. and King Feisal of Saudi Arabia is endangered.

Mr. Nixon, in fact, is using the threat of strained relations with old friend King Feisal, whose country sits on 24 per cent of the world's known reserves of crude oil, to justify a new look at the tumultuous Middle East. With the U.S. facing grave oil shortages, and King Feisal under growing Arab pressure to use his influence to shift American policy from pro-Israel to neutral — no small shift — Mr. Nixon is far more concerned than generally realized.

But to that there must be added the explosive ingredient of Israel's seeming contempt for the opinion of major U.S. allies, particularly in Western Europe, and the U.S. itself.

In the dramatic Israeli raid into the heart of Beirut last April 10, for example, the first fatal victim of the Israeli counter-terrorists was no Palestinian terrorist but an elderly Italian woman who happened to be occupying the apartment where the Israelis expected to find a guerrilla leader. She was gunned to death.

Although her death caused scarcely a ripple in the American press, the Italian government did not take it lightly.

Likewise, less than one month after the murder of a Moroccan in a Norwegian village on July 21, allegedly by two Israeli counter-terrorists, an Israeli diplomat accused of hiding the two Israelis was declared persona non grata — and expelled from Norway.

Coming on top of this and other bloody incidents, all of them the direct results of Israel's lonely struggle to stamp out the Palestinian terrorist movement, was the skyjacking of the Middle East airliner. With heavy pressure from U.S. ambassador John Scali, backed by the White House and the State Department, the United Nations Security Council finally agreed on a condemnation of Israel that the U.S. could vote for. Result: the first anti-Israel U.S. vote since 1968, and probably the harshest UN Security Council condemnation of a Middle Eastern state since Israel seized the Egyptian Sinai peninsula, the West Bank of Jordan and the Golan Heights of Syria in the 1967 war.

Yet, despite these clear signs that Israel is encountering increasing resistance to its draconian, worldwide methods aimed at stamping out Palestinian terrorism, other plans by the Israeli government are likely to make things still worse.

Thus, the Labor government of Prime Minister Golda Meir, facing an election this fall, has now approved plans to build a city for 50,000 on the Israeli-occupied (but Syrian) Golan Heights and an "urban center" in Israeli-occupied (but Egyptian) northern Sinai.

These plans, together with Moshe Dayan's policy of more intense Jewish settlement on the West Bank, are being announced by the Israeli government against the backdrop of Defense Minister Dayan's candid statement on Aug. 9 that Israel now has — and can maintain — clear military superiority over the Arab Middle East.

Dayan, as viewed by some of his most ardent backers here, is saying in effect that "we've got the power and you can't stop us." Even to the foremost American champions of Israel, that spells far more trouble in the future. It spells collision course, not only with Western Europe but probably with the U.S. as well.

Lance Rentzel Will Have to Take It

In public, the professional athlete displays an assortment of coordinated muscles, courage, dignity and a fury to excel. In private, he is frequently a narcissistic slob. His soiled shirts and underwear are on the floor and, while scratching himself, he whines pitiably when he reads about his performance.

Joe Namath, the man with the Shirley Temple knees, boasts in print that gorgeous girls bother him at his hotel pounding on the door at late hours to ask about intricate plays. The fan is interested in Namath's exploits on outdoor turf. To my knowledge, no one wants to see him red-dogged indoors.

Lance Rentzel of the Los Angeles Rams was recently benched for a year. The charge is that he was addicted to the old topcoat flip. Twice so they say, he was caught flipping the coat open as little girls approached. He was also bagged for possession of marijuana.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle put the crusher on Rentzel for "conduct detrimental to the NFL." This, I submit, is the easy way out. The crowded subways and parks where thick crowds gather are laced with idots who press too close to attractive ladies. The cops call them "warmers."

"Warmers" are different from the rest of us. They are sexually frightened men. On rare occasions, when they warm a friendly lady, and she smiles over her shoulder, the "Warmer" runs for his life. This also applies to the love coward who practice indecent exposure.

I never met Lance Rentzel. I know that he is dark, good-looking, 29 years of age and, as a wide receiver, caught 13 passes in one game for 233 yards. He has talent, affluent parents, and had a marriage to Joey Heatherton.

Any district attonrey who has dealt with this type of behavior knows that Mr. Rentzel is a sickee. To be married to a pretty movie actress and still do the top-coat flip in front of kids establishes a prima facie case.

It is important to have an examination of the children to determine whether they have sustained a traumatic experience. If there is no emotional damage, Lance Rentzel should undergo psychiatric treatment so that he will understand his adolescent attitude toward females. When he sees himself for what he is, growth and maturity will become possible.

If, on the other hand, the girls have been irreparably hurt, a one-year suspension by Rozelle will correct nothing. In that case, Rentzel should be filed away in a sanitarium where his pants can be welded together. The smoking of marijuana is reputedly so common among younger football players that, if Rozelle is serious about it, future suspensions will decimate the teams.

I am hardly a fan of swinging Joe Namath, but Rozelle said Joe's restaurant catered to "undesirable customers." Namath had to sell out. Who decides who is "undesirable"? One further question: undesirable to whom?

A decade ago, Pete suspended Alex Karras and Paul Hornung for football betting. As I recall, neither bet against his own team or his own performance. It was not a sell-out, like the White Sox baseball scandal of 1919. So far, Rozelle has never suspended an owner. And please don't tell me that all of them are haloed saints.

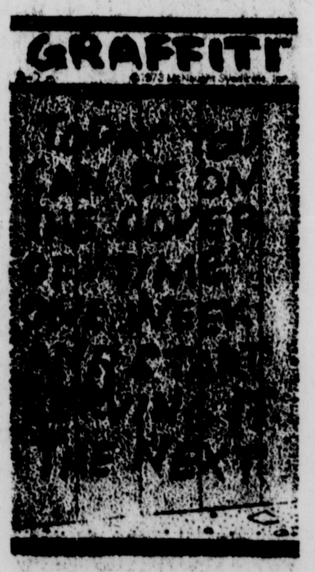

Lance Rentzel must be fairly honest about himself. Not long ago he wrote: "Exhibitionism is not my only problem. It is probably the most obvious symptom of it." He is prepared to accept treatment. The fans who pay to see the Los Angeles Rams beaten are going to yell "pervert" at him. The young man is going to have to take it.

I think back on evenings when I used to cover Night Court on 54th Street in New York. Hymie Bushel was the judge. From ten p.m. onward, there was a parade of drunken wife-beaters and "indecent exposures." The old judge had mellowed. He sent the wife-beaters to the can; the coat-flippers went to Bellevue Hospital to the shrinks. At 2 a.m. we had mugs of steaming coffee and sugar-dusted doughnuts. "The only way to cut down on the sick ones," he said, "is to send them off to Doctor Baumann.

"When he pounds into their heads their sexual inadequacies, they start growing up a little at a time. Baumann takes the fun out o' it."

Rozelle is a competent commissioner. Perhaps a great one. But for Pete's sake, when the problem involves off-the-field activities, he should ask for competent social counsel. . .

Rocky Family Criticized on Nuclear Plants

Larry Bogart of the Citizens Energy Council has accused the Rockefeller family of foisting nuclear plants on the public because of Rockefeller investments in the nuclear energy industry.

Speaking at a picnic sponsored by the Citizens to Preserve the Hudson Valley held at Cedar Grove in West Athens recently, Bogart questioned the safety of nuclear plants, especially the "fast-breeder" reactors which boil water to create steam which powers electrical producing turbines. These reactors use plutenium, a man-made element, Bogart said, and plutonium takes 500,000 years to dissipate and is hazardous for that time.

Discussing the nuclear plant at Indian Point which is now preparing to go into operation, Bogart stressed that never before have so many poisons been gathered together at one point. There are 11 million people, including the residents of Greene County, in the 55-mile danger area of the plant near Peekskill, he said.

A film on nuclear safety shown by Bogart dramatized the plight of some scientists and technicians who dared to publicize their opinion about nuclear safety against the official position which insists these plants are safe.

Former Congressman John Dow, who also spoke at the picnic, emphasized the fate of the lonely individual who dares speak out against institutions. He spoke of the large investments made by major corporations in the nuclear industry and commended the people of the area for banding together to form Citizens to Preserve the Hudson Valley.

Two Explorers Lost in Jungle

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Two young American explorers are missing in the jungle headwaters of the Amazon River in Peru, according to reports received by the father of one of the men.

Eugene Fear of Tacoma said Sunday his son, Ronald, 29, and Walter Churchill, 20, Toledo, Ohio, were believed to have had a river accident about Aug. 7-9.

The two were reported missing after they became separated from four other American explorers. Searchers found only a broken raft and a few personal items.

Fear said the search area covered more than 250 miles of river flowing through dense jungle inhabited by "monkeys in trees, hundreds of wild birds and snakes that are 20 feet long."

Fear described his son as "an adventurer. He lived what the rest of the people of this world only dream of—exploring untamed rivers and climbing unclimbed mountains."

Kennedy Goes to Trial On Negligent Driving

NANTUCKET, Mass. (UPI) — Joseph P. Kennedy III, eldest son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, pleaded innocent at his arraignment today on a negligent driving charge stemming from an accident in which his brother and two teen-age girls were injured. He immediately went on trial.

The investigating policeman, Bill Calton, testified that Kennedy said "the accident was entirely his fault."

The 21-year-old Kennedy was accompanied to a crowded District Court courtroom by his mother Ethel and his uncle, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Judge George Anastas, counsel for the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy during the Senate McCarthy hearings of the early 1950s, presided over both the arraignment and trial.

One of Kennedy's two lawyers, Wayne Holmes, tried to establish that the accident happened when Kennedy swerved to avoid a collision with a car driven by Merrill Lingsay.

Kennedy, his brother David, 18, and five other persons were in a jeep which overturned one week ago at an intersection on this resort island. One of the injured girls was paralyzed, at least temporarily.

Calton and Sandra Peterson, a witness to the accident, both testified that Kennedy said the accident was his fault.

Kennedy, dressed in a gray suit, sat outwardly impassive during the proceedings. He was flanked by Holmes and another defense attorney, John W. Douglas of Washington, D.C.

The prosecutor, assistant District Attorney Robert Mooney, interrogated defense witnesses and argued that the jeep's capacity was for four persons.

Pamela Kelley, 18, of Centerville, Mass., was paralyzed in both legs and underwent surgery on her spine at Cape Cod Hospital in Hyannis following the crash. A hospital spokesman said she reported "a little bit more" feeling in her legs Sunday.

But doctors said it would be another week to 10 days before they could tell whether she would ever walk again. Miss Kelley has been visited by a large number of relatives and friends, including Joseph.

The other girl seriously hurt, Mary Schlaff, 22, of Grosse Pointe, Mich., suffered a broken leg and pelvis. David Kennedy, hospitalized with a sprained back, was reported in good condition and expected to be released later this week.

Joseph, who suffered minor cuts and bruises in the wreck, was charged specifically with "driving negligently so that the lives and safety of the public might be endangered."

Youth Jailed For Reporting False Incident

WOODSTOCK

Robert Troy, 18, of Regal Park, N. Y. was arrested by Hurley state police BCI and Woodstock constables Sunday and charged with falsely reporting an incident.

According to police, Troy reported that his car was stolen sometime Sunday. According to police, their investigation revealed that Troy allegedly ran his car into a field near West Camp and abandoned it there.

Troy pleaded guilty to the charge before Town of Woodstock Justice Rudolph Baumgaten. He was sentenced to the Ulster County Jail in lieu of a $50 fine payment.

Helpful Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE

Dear Heloise:

How many times have you thrown away a good bottle of fingernail polish that has become gummy or thick?

Try adding a few drops of cigarette lighter fuel to the bottle. It will be just like new. Also see how much faster they dry.

This was a bottle of nail polish will last 3 or 4 times longer. Add a few drops at a time depending upon how gummy or full the bottle is.

It's a great idea in an emergency.

Martha Unrhammer

Tried it! It worked as good as regular thinner for me. You never know when you will be in need of a substitute.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I received a linen calendar for my birthday, and it was just too pretty to use as a dish towel.

I had been wanting to display the brooches that my children had given me when they were small and, who knows, probably saved their allowances for.

I got out all of them, plus my up-to-date sparkly ones and pinned them on each of the days of the month, until it was completely covered. I'm a great-grandmother so you see why I have so many.

Mrs. Naomi Foster

Cherished memories are the jewels of our lifetime!

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

From experience in previous years I know that my "camp-goers" get home with just about half of the things that they took to camp.

This year, I've decided to make a complete list of everything that I pack for them, and tape it to the inside of their suitcases.

Then wher they start to pack for home (keep your fingers crossed), no item will be left behind.

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 14-year-old girl who wants a pet with all my heart. My folks say I can't have it. Abby, it's a six-inch, nonpoisonous snake, which can't hurt anybody. I am willing to pay for it with my own money. I even have the money for an aquarium — and have studied up on how to care for it. My folks wouldn't even know it was around. When it's not with me it would be locked up.

I have studied snakes and have learned all about them and they really aren't all that bad. A girl could have a worse hobby.

My mother doesn't know it, but this snake I want grows to be nine feet long, but I want it anyway. Please, be a pal and help me to convince my mother to let me have a snake.

MICHELLE

DEAR MICHELLE: Of all God's creatures, none has been so unjustly maligned as the serpent. (It probably goes back to the Garden of Eden.)

Your mother, like many others, is prejudiced against snakes because she knows very little about them. Herpetologists say that a snake (the nonpoisonous kind) makes a wonderful pet. It's clean, quiet, affectionate, and easy to train — and you can be sure nobody will steal it!

* * *

DEAR ABBY: You sure missed a wonderful opportunity by not answering "A Believer in Buffalo" when she said with regard to the Living Will: "God determines who shall die and when — not you, or anyone else."

You should have told her that was exactly what you were saying: "Let God make the determination and let man keep his cotton pickin' hands off."

Mid-Hudson Rose Society Now Affiliated With ARS

Floyd F. Taylor, New York State District Director of the American Rose Society, recently presented to the Mid-Hudson Rose Society its charter as an Affiliate of the national organization, the American Rose Society. The presentation was made during the meeting of the new society at Rose Hill Gardens, the garden of Mrs. Dorothy Yoerg, president, Ulster Park. During the presentation, Mr. Taylor congratulated the Mid-Hudson Rose Society upon its achievement in qualifying for a charter in the short time it has been in existence and stated that it now may participate in all the activities. Its ARS members may hold office in the national organization.

Mrs. Yoerg was honored also at the meeting. A certificate appointing her as consulting rosarian of the American Rose Society was presented by Mr. Taylor. Very few people receive this honor. To qualify it is necessary to be an ARS member; to have grown roses for a minimum of five years (Mrs. Yoerg has grown them for 20 years); to have at least 100 bushes of various classes and varieties; be willing to assist and advise on rose culture problems; help amateurs start new rose gardens and share knowledge with others.

CHARTER AWARDED — Mrs. Dorothy Yoerg of Ulster Park, president of the Mid-Hudson Rose Society, accepts the Society's charter as an affiliate of the national organization, the American Rose Society. The presentation was made by Floyd Taylor of Schenectady, second from left, New York State district director of ARS. Looking on are Martin Kelly of High Falls, left, first vice president of MHRS, and Robert Keagle of Accord, second vice president. (Freeman photo by Powell)

The Mid-Hudson Rose Society was organized June 20, 1973 at a meeting in the Community Room of the Heritage Savings Bank, Kingston. Its membership is growing rapidly. Communities represented are in Ulster, Dutchess, Greene, Orange and Sullivan Counties. However, membership is open to all interested rose lovers. Consultation and free assistance is offered to new home owners and others who would like to grow roses. One of the goals of the Society is to help beautify communities and public parks in the Mid-Hudson area. Those who join before September 1st, will become charter members. They should contact Mrs. Robert Finger, treasurer, at 10 Prospect Street, Saugerties, New York, 12477.

Featured at the meeting and picnic was a panel discussion on "Growing Roses the Easy Way," chaired by Miss Lily Shohan, program chairman. Speakers were Mrs. John Sisto, Rotterdam Junction; Robert Keagle, Accord; and Martin Kelly, High Falls. The Constitution was adopted.

Guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Taylor of Schenectady and Mr. and Mrs. John Sisto of Rotterdam Junction. Serving on the Committee for the meeting and picnic were Mrs. Frank Greco, Saugerties; Mrs. Herbert Johnson, West Park; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kelly, High Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Keagle, Accord; Mrs. Robert Finger, Saugerties; Mrs. Jerry Oland, Ulster Park; Miss Lily Shohan, Clinton Corners; Mrs. Edward Devine, Kingston; Mrs. Marjorie Humphreys, and Mrs. Jessie Shepherd, both of Wallkill; William Werle, Ulster Park; and John Bowman Jr., Esopus.

The next meeting of the society will be held Wednesday, Sept. 26th, 8 p.m. at 9W, Kingston. A miniature rose show is planned. Members will be invited to bring their roses to the meeting. Those present will vote for the roses they consider superior and a group of top prize winners will then be announced. After the voting, accredited rose judges present will indicate which of the roses they consider merit blue ribbons and which specimens would qualify for Queen of the Show, a hybrid tea; King of the Show, a grandiflora rose; and Princess of the Show, a floribunda rose. All members and lovers of roses are invited to participate. Refreshments will be served at this open meeting.

THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS
...it tells you how

Victor A. Croley—of Berryville, Arkansas—has an idea that would-be back-to-the-landers might do well to take seriously. He says, "As our population continues to pack itself into the cities, we're leaving thousands of abandoned homes, ghost towns and near-ghost towns sprinkled all over the country. If you can figure out a way to bring a little steady cash into one of these dying communities, you can give the entire village a new lease on life . . . at the same time you assure yourself of that country home you'd like to have."

Vic's right! I know a fellow who's doing just that right now by turning an abandoned village in southern Indiana into a tourist attraction. It's hard work . . . but when our man is done, he'll own the whole town!

For more about reviving and recycling abandoned buildings and ghost towns, send 10¢ and a stamped, self-addressed long envelope to THE MOTHER EARTH NEWS, in care of this paper. Ask for Reprint No. 142, REVITALIZE A VILLAGE.

Doing the Right Thing

Dear Mrs. Post:

I would appreciate your answer to the following question: Should a dinner guest (not a clergyman) be asked to give thanks? If so, should he be asked if he would do so before dinner?

MRS. J. ALLEN

Dear Mrs. Allen:

Any guest may be asked to say a blessing, but he should certainly be warned in advance. He might not be accustomed to saying Grace, and would need a few moments warning to plan his words.

Dear Mrs. Post:

What can you do when someone sitting next to you on a train or a plane insists on trying to start a conversation? I like to read when I travel, and don't necessarily care to be forced into talking to my seat-mates.

ANDREA

Dear Andrea:

Answer your fellow-travelers' opening remark or question as briefly as possible. Avoid anything that suggests interest. Most people get the hint after a few monosyllabic replies, but if he doesn't, your only course is to say "I'd really like to read, if you don't mind," or "I'm awfully tired and I really don't feel much like talking."

CONTRACT SIGNING—Richard L. Treat (c), publisher of the Daily Freeman, signs the contract for a new Goss Cosmo offset press to be housed in the new Freeman printing complex off Ferry Street. ONE OF THE FREEMAN'S FOUR NEW PRESS UNITS.

New Offset Press for Freeman

KINGSTON — The Daily Freeman has purchased a new four-unit Goss Cosmo offset press for installation in the new printing complex that will be constructed off Ferry Street later this year, Richard L. Treat, publisher, announced today.

The new press, custom built for the Freeman by the Goss Division of MGD Graphic Systems, has a capacity of 64 pages and can print 50,000 issues in one hour. By comparison, the Freeman's current presses have a capacity of 48 pages and can produce 15,000 issues an hour.

The new press is especially attractive, said Treat, because of its excellent flexibility for color printing. The Goss Cosmo press offers exceptionally high quality color reproduction capabilities.

In addition, each of the four press units are completely enclosed, in contrast to older-styled presses now in use. As a result, noise levels emanating from the presses will be drastically reduced, as will the possibility of accidents involving pressmen who are required to work in close proximity to the presses while they are in operation.

Treat noted that the press unit will be operational in late fall of 1974, when the Freeman moves into its new quarters. Construction on the 29,200 square foot building, which will include the latest in photoengraving and typesetting equipment, is expected to begin this fall. The Kingston Common Council has already approved the Freeman's purchase of the 5.2 acre Urban Renewal parcel.

Sales representatives for MGD Graphic Systems were Paul Zeugner, manager of customer engineering and James Crowe, manager of the firm's North east sales division. MGD Graphic Systems is a division of North American Rockwell.

New Approach to Registration Planned at New Paltz State

NEW PALTZ — Experimental theatre and dance, a people-to-people approach to great music, and two folk music artists will entertain freshmen and other new entrants to the State University College at New Paltz during Orientation Week Aug. 24-30.

These events will be open to the public for an admission charge and will be free to new entrants, according to an announcement by Naomi Thaler, coordinator of college activities. A full schedule of movies will also be shown during the week.

Ellen McIlwaine and Rush, two regional artists who are rapidly establishing themselves nationally in the music field, will perform Sunday, Aug. 26 at 8 p.m. in the Main Building Auditorium. Miss McIlwaine combines folk, jazz and scat singing styles in a highly distinctive manner; Rush's songs about Vermont recall Gordon Lightfoot's about Canada.

James Cunningham and the Acme Dance Company will conduct a workshop at 8:15 p.m. Monday, Aug. 27 in the Multipurpose Room of the Student Union Building. The troupe will also present movement and nonmovement classes for the new entrants earlier that day and the next day.

The Cunningham company has been well-received in several previous performances at SUC New Paltz. Its avant-garde style combines elements of yoga, acting, ballet, modern dance, singing, vocal and movement improvisation and rock dancing.

"Medicine Show," a theatre piece created by people formerly associated with the Open Theatre, will be performed Tuesday, Aug. 28 at 8 p.m. in the Multipurpose Room. The piece has been highly praised in the New York press.

The medicine show, a purely American form of entertainment, is the vehicle for "a voyage through American history, mythology, fantasy and fancy." The piece draws on the legend of George Washington, "The Wizard of Oz," "Uncle Tom's Cabin," gangster lore, and many other elements. The Medicine Show Theatre Ensemble is directed by Barbara Vann.

Music for people will perform at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 29 in the Purple Lounge of the Student Union Building. Music experience for people of all young musicians dedicated to making good music a sharing experienc for people of all colors and creeds.

The group rejects the formal trappings that usually mark a concert of classical music and aims at establishing a close rapport with the listeners. Drawing on the treasury of ethnic and nationalistic classics, the musicians explain and interpret the music as well as perform it.

Ulster County Highways - - Death Traps for Animals

By WADE BURKHART

While man may be changing his life style and adapting to the automobile, animals are not. They are being killed or maimed in large numbers on the highways.

Figures of the State Department of Transportation, Kingston headquarters show that state highway crews remove about 20 dead animals, both wild and domestic, from state highways in Ulster County each week. James Pierson, the DOT resident engineer, said he felt this was probably a "conservative" figure, since some small animals removed during routine work on the highways probably went unreported.

During 1972, DOT figures show more than 200 deer were killed on state highways in the county. Pierson said the removal of a dead animal from the highway ran about one man-hour per animal. That costs about $7 to $10.

About the worst section in the county for car-struck deer is the section of Route 28 between Phoenicia and Oliverea, according to Regional Conservation Officer George Odell, of the State Department of Environmental Conservation.

Odell said cars take "a tremendous toll" of wildlife. In fact, the number of animals killed on the highways is so significant it must be taken into account in wildlife management by the DEC.

While the slaughter of wildlife continues, no solution seems to be forthcoming. Odell said he had no solution, and that signs posted at deer crossing areas had been largely a failure. "Signs mean nothing to people," he said.

New Paltz veterinarian Dr. Alan Schwartz does have a way of cutting down on the number of domestic animals hit — "confinement." Schwartz deals with car-struck animals daily, as many as three or four a day, with the summer months the worst.

He placed the blame for every dog struck by a car squarely on the dog's owner. "It's never the driver's fault or the animal's fault," said Schwartz, "it's the owner's fault."

The veterinarian beleives that all dogs should be confined, walked on a leash, and have collars with indentification in case of accident. He believes cats and other domestic pets should be similarly confined. Not only will confinement keep the animals from getting hit, he said, but it will also keep the animals free from such things as parasites and other diseases, and acute indigestion brought on by over indulgence in garbage, that afflict free-running pets.

Not only does a hit animal pay a price in physical pain and suffering, but the owner's mental suffering is frequently compounded by very real dilemma. Dr. Schwartz said car accidents were "a major cause of major bills," and pet owners were frequently torn between saving their pet and the high cost of the major operations needed to save it.

Dr. James Cone, an Ellenville area veterinarian, endorses the idea of confinement of pets as a way of cutting down the death toll. "Preventing dogs from roaming is most important," he said. He said he treats an average of a dog a day for injuries suffered on a highway, with the total jumping on weekends. He said he can almost predict the number of struck animals he will see from the number of cars on the road.

Most of the animals Dr. Cone sees are struck on back roads. He said this is not because more animals were struck on back roads, but for the grim reason that animals struck on a main highway were usually killed outright.

Support for confinement of pets can be gathered from an observation made by Alan Kane, manager of the Ulster County SPCA shelter. He said he has noticed that towns with dog wardens actively enforcing pet laws have a smaller problem with hit animals than towns that do not.

Pet confinement is not a popular idea with many people, who feel their animals are much happier running free. Dr. Schwartz conceded that this was a popular notion, but he said the confined animals he knew of were just as happy as free-running pets, healthier and alive.

Paltz Speakers on Watergate, Pentagon Papers, NOW

Principal figures in the Watergate affair, in the publication of the Pentagon Papers and in the women's movement will speak at the State University College at New Paltz Aug. 27, 29 and 30, the College Activities Office has announced.

The speakers will be Wilma Scott Heide, president of the National Organization of Women (NOW); Anthony J. Russo Jr., codefendant with Dr. Daniel Ellsberg in the Pentagon Papers trial; James W. McCord Jr., one of the seven men found guilty of breaking into the Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate complex in Washington; and Carl Bernstein, a young reporter for the Washington Post and Times Herald who uncovered hidden strands of the Watergate story.

McCord and Bernstein will debate Watergate issues on Thursday, Aug. 30. Though they are represented by the same lecture bureau, this will be their first appearance together. Ms Heide's talk is scheduled Monday, Aug. 27 and Mr. Russo's Wednesday, Aug. 29.

All these events are scheduled for 8 p.m. in Room 100 of the college's Lecture Center. New college entrants will be admitted free, and admission for others will be charged at the door. The public is welcome.

The speakers' appearances are part of a wide array of events scheduled during New Entrant Orientation Week, according to Bernard M. Bartz, associate coordinator of college activities. Freshmen and new transfer students arrive on campus the week of Aug. 24-31 for registration and an introduction to the college.

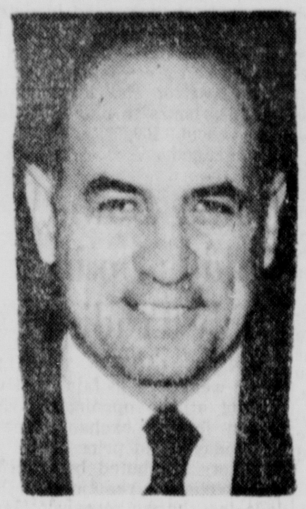

Ms Heide, who lives in Vernon, Conn., is a forthright spokesman for her organization of such issues as day care centers and jobs. When the last two vacancies on the Supreme Court occurred she called for the appointment of women to fill them. In a recently published interview, she said she learned of NOW four years ago when her husband showed her an article, and she joined the organization two seconds later.

Russo met Dr. Ellsberg while both were working in the Rand Corporation in Santa Monica, Calif. The government charged them with conspiring to "defraud the United States and an agency thereof" in connection with the copying and distribution to newspapers of a secret Pentagon study of the Vietnam War. The charges were dismissed last May when the court ruled that the government's conduct, including a burglary of the office of Dr. Ellsberg's psychiatrist, had "offended a sense of justice."

McCord, with 19 years of service in the Central Intelligence Agency and four in the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was security coordinator for the Committee for the Reelection of the President when he was arrested inside the Democratic headquarters in June 1972. Last March, after the trial had ended with conviction of seven men, he told the judge that others had known beforehand of the plan to bug the office and that perjury was committed during the trial. These charges were instrumental in widening the scope of the investigation into the top levels of the campaign and the White House.

Rescuers Hopeful At Arizona Cave-in

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (AP) — Rescue crews hoped to reach by this afternoon the cave-in debris that has trapped two men since Friday at the end of a copper mine tunnel south of here.

Verne McCutchan, state mine inspector and head of rescue efforts, said it would take about nine more hours to burrow through the mound of wet earth to the trapped miners.

"We're confident the men are still alive," he said.

He said heavy smoke and heat in the dark tunnel have kept the rescuers from reaching the mound.

"We want to be very careful so we don't lose any lives," he added.

McCutchan said the more than 50 workers had reached the 500-foot mark of the horizontal tunnel early today and had to cover another 400 feet before reaching the tons of debris. The tunnel is 1,200 feet below ground.

When they reach the fire, they will attempt to smother it with chemical foam and fog, said McCutchan.

Two men were trapped when tons of wet earth fell from a vertical shaft to the floor of the tunnel of the Lakeshore Mine operated by the Hecla Mining Co. The fire apparently began when a loader burst into flames and ignited wood bracings in the tunnel, McCutchan said.

"We have not been able to reach them by signal, but this is not unusual considering the probability that the sound of any signal tapped on the pipe through which air and water were being pumped is dampered by the depth of the tunnel," he said.

Earlier, McCutchan had said the men—trapped in a chamber 14 feet high, 14 feet wide and 500 feet long—had enough oxygen for about 80 hours. However, he said that figure was a mistake and "it should be 80 days instead."

One of the miners was identified as 41-year-old David Deeder of Casa Grande, who is married and has two children. The name of the other man, identified only as a 20-year-old bachelor, was being withheld until company officials could reach his parents, reported to be vacationing abroad.

COTTEKILL

A 19-year-old Kingston youth was charged with third degree assault Sunday morning after he allegedly struck another person in the face with a pool cue at B-G's Restaurant in Cottekill.

Noxious Gas Chases 150,000 Near Los Angeles

CARSON, Calif. (AP) — Yellow clouds of noxious gas chased more than 150,000 persons from beaches and homes in this Los Angeles suburb over the weekend, according to official estimates.

The billowing gas, sulphur trioxide escaping from a tank at the Stauffer Chemical Co., blanketed 25 square miles in the southeasten Los Angeles area Saturday afternoon.

Thirty-eight persons were reported treated at local hospitals after exposure to the fumes. Nearly all were released. The four still hospitalized Sunday were in good condition, authorities said.

The plant manager and a hospital poison information center said the gas, used in detergent manufacturing, could be fatal in strong concentrations.

Authorities were investigating the cause of the leak, which took 5½ hours to plug. Officials said about 100,000 gallons of gas escaped.

Dollar Down; Gold Is Up in Early Trading

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar weakened in fairly active trading at the opening of European foreign exchange markets today. Gold prices rose.

Dealers attributed both shifts to a technical reaction to the dollar's sharp recovery last week.

The pound rose a cent in London, to $2.47. In Paris, the dollar lost 2 centimes, dropping to 4.315 francs. It dipped to 2.4630 marks in Frankfurt, down from 2.4700 Friday.

Gold rose to $106 an ounce in Zurich and to $107.25 an ounce in London. It had closed at $104 an ounce in both centers Friday.

Car Plunges in Creek, Driver Is Rescued

TOWN OF WOODSTOCK

Attendants from Fatum's Ambulance Service, along with Ulster County Sheriff's Deputies and state police, pulled a 22-year-old Kingston man from his partially submerged car in the Sawkill Creek after it toppled down a 50-foot embankment Sunday afternoon.

George L. Lehr Jr. of RD 2, Kingston, was reported in fair condition today at Benedictine Hospital with multiple contusions and a back injury.

Police said Lehr was traveling east on Sawkill Road, just west of Murray Hill Road in the Town of Woodstock, when he apparently lost control of his car. The auto veered across the road and struck several guardrails before plunging down the embankment.

Lehr was pinned inside the car. Rescue personnel were forced to dive into the water to extricate him.

OTB Revenues Below Budget

NEW YORK (UPI) — City and state revenues from the city's Off-Track Betting Corp. this year were about $10 million short of WHAT OTB had anticipated, according to a state audit released Saturday.

In a mid-year revew of the actual and budgeted financial results of the OTB operation for 1972-73, Comptroller Arthur Levitt said "revenues from OTB available for distribution were well below the amounts budgeted."

The budget anticipated that $23.9 million would be available for distribution to the city and state at mid-year, Levitt said, but the actual amount available was $13.5 million.

According to OTB officials, the principle factor for the poor showing was its inability to televise the races.

LEAPFROG—N. Y. Mets' shortstop Bud Harrelson leaps over Cincinnati Reds Pete Rose after tagging him out in rundown between first and second base during sixth inning of Sunday's Shea Stadium contest. Rose was caught off first base on Joe Morgan's line drive to Willie Mays at first base. Mets nipped the Reds, 2-1. (UPI)

Ferguson Is Great, And Knows It

By FRED DOWN

When a fellow is young, carefree and confident enough to request unlucky 13 as his uniform number, he can say things like this:

"I believe I can be a better catcher than Johnny Bench. I think I can hit with as much power and for a higher average."

The speaker, on national TV yet, was a guy named Joe — Joe Ferguson of the Los Angeles Dodgers — and he made the statement when he had played in fewer than 100 major league games.

Well, the custodians of the Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., aren't preparing yet to take the spot set aside for Bench and reserve it instead for Ferguson's plaque. But they and the rest of the baseball world have developed a healthy respect for the 26-year-old native of San Francisco.

Ferguson won some more respect Sunday when his two-run homer with two out in the ninth inning enabled the Dodgers to beat the Chicago Cubs 2-1 and increase their National League Western Division lead over the Cincinnati Reds to 2½ games. The blow spoiled a brilliant effort by Rick Reuschel, who had a no-hitter through seven innings.

The Montreal Expos defeated the Atlanta Braves 3-1, the St. Louis Cardinals shaded the San Diego Padres 1-0, the New York Mets nipped the Reds 2-1, the Pittsburgh Pirates blanked the San Francisco Giants 5-0, and the Philadelphia Phillies topped the Houston Astros 5-3 in other NL games.

American League scores were Boston 4 Kansas City 3, Oakland 6 Milwaukee 4, Cleveland over Minnesota 5-3 and 4-3, Baltimore 8 Chicago 2, Texas 6 New York 2, and Detroit 4 California 3 in 11 innings.

Ferguson, the most surprising of the Dodgers' under-publicized stars this season, delivered his game-winning blow off Reuschel after a single by Bill Buckner. He's no Bench yet but his season figures are surprisingly close to the Cincinnati star's — a .259 average, 18 homers and 65 RBI compared to Johnnys' .255-21-89. The figures might be even more impressive except that Ferguson has been sidelined for about three weeks with injuries.

Ron Santo had given Reuschel, who struck out 13, a 1-0 lead in the fifth inning when he hit his 13th homer. Willie Crawford broke Reuschel's no-hit spell with a single opening the eighth inning.

Pepe Mangual's homer and Ken Singleton's run-scoring single were the big blows for the Expos as Balor Moore won his seventh game and Mike Marshall received credit for his 25th save. Darrell Evans tripled home the Braves' run as Phil Niekro suffered his sixth loss against 13 wins.

Alan Foster pitched a seven-hitter for the Cardinals, who scored the game's only run with the help of a throwing error by San Diego shortstop Dwain Anderson in the first inning. Rake McBride scored from second base on the error, which tagged Bill Greif with his 13th loss. Foster is now 10-6 for the Cardinals, who have lost 11 of their last 13 games.

Jerry Koosman pitched a six-hitter and struck out six, winning his ninth game against 14 losses for the Mets, and handing Ross Grimsley his seventh setback for Cincinnati. Bud Harrelson scored the Mets' first run on Willie Mays' sacrifice fly and doubled in the winning run in the eighth.

Jim Rooker pitched a five-hitter for his sixth win for the Pirates, who dealt San Francisco's Juan Marichal his ninth loss. Rich Hebner and Manny Sanguillen each drove in two runs for the Pirates and Al Oliver knocked in the fifth run with a homer.

Bill Robinson drove in five runs with a grand slam homer and a sacrifice fly, enabling Wayne Twitchell to raise his record to 12-5 with an eight-hitter for the Phillies. Jerry Reuss suffered his ninth defeat against 13 victories for the Astros.

Shock Treatment: Crandall Recipe

NEW YORK (UPI) — He didn't label it that, but what Del Crandall really was trying was some plain old-fashioned shock treatment.

"Boys," he said, addressing the Milwaukee Brewers, "there's only one reason we're putting on these uniforms. There's only one goal we have this year and that's to win the World Series."

Del Crandall made this little speech the very first day he had all his players in camp this past spring.

The Brewers weren't sure whom he was talking to. Could it possibly be he was talking to them, a crew which finished dead last the season before, 21 games out? Certainly not. Del Crandall must have made a mistake somewhere. He probably thought he was addressing the 1927 Yankees or some team like that.

"I remember how everybody sort of shuddered when he said that," says Jim Colborn, the Brewers' perceptive 15-game winner.

"It was so completely outrageous. Me? I shuddered, too. I wanted to go along with what he was saying, but it seemed so utterly incredible. That's really the only word you can use. But he didn't merely talk about it. He did something about it. From the very first day of spring training, he installed a program of fundamentals, actually very basic things that other clubs wouldn't possibly be working on.

"One day," Colborn comes right back, "he had the whole ball club stand by the on deck circle simply to explain the purpose of the on deck circle to us. Once you swing the bat and get loose, he told us, you get on one knee so the fans behind you can see, and you focus your attention on the pitcher. You don't look up in the stands or some other place in the ballpark, but at the pitcher. Del went even beyond the regularly accepted basics with us. His attention to detail is almost beyond description.

"With it all, he never lets us lose sight of our goal. 'Boys,' he still keeps telling us, 'I'm reminding you—our goal is to win the World Series.' Nobody laughs. Nobody thinks it's that outrageous anymore. We may be back a bit, but this club hasn't quit."

Del Crandall has the same basic approach to baseball George Allen has to football.

Outside his immediate family, he thinks it comes first.

I asked him if he could think of anything humorous that had occurred since the season started, and after mulling it over awhile, he said he couldn't.

"Baseball isn't a humorous thing to me," he said.

Earlier this season, Crandall electrified everybody by having his Brewers in first place in the American League East. They've tumbled since, mostly because they're young and inexperienced, but not because they have lost any faith in themselves.

Del Crandall sees to it they never do.

Last Tuesday night, the Brewers reached the highest attendance total in their four seasons in Milwaukee—936,923. Earlier in the day, they rewarded Crandall by tearing up his old one-year contract and giving him a new one, also for one year.

Didn't that bother him a bit, not getting a longer contract?

"Not at all," he said, in that soft even way of his. "Look at Walt Alston! I don't worry about the term of my contracts."

"What about an increase," one of the local newsmen was curious. "Did you get one?"

"Yes, he received an increase," put in General Manager Jim Wilson.

"Was it substantial?"

Murcer Ends the Drought

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — The homer drought is over for Bobby Murcer and it came in the last stadium in the American League he thought he could get one over the fence.

Murcer ripped a Sonny Siebert curve ball into the teeth of a strong southerly wind Sunday night and the ball barely cleared the fence at the 330-foot mark—the New York Yankee centerfielder's first home run in his last 116 times at bat.

The Yanks went on to down the Texas Rangers 6-2 behind Pat Dobson, who was coming out of a slump himself.

"I was absolutely shocked when the ball went out," Murcer said. "This is the worst park in the league on a left-hander. The wind blows and blows. If they ever trade me down here, I'm quitting."

It was Murcer's first homer of the year in Arlington Stadium and his 19th of the season. He had not homered since July 13.

Murcer, who hit 33 home runs last year, said, "I'm still not satisfied with the way I'm hitting the ball," even though his average is at a lofty .318.

"For some reason," he said, "I'm struggling and I'm still not in the groove. Has it really been 116 at-bats since I hit one? I'm glad this is the last game of the year here."

Yankee Manager Ralph Houk said Dobson's eight-hit performance was the former Atlanta pitcher's best in his last three outings.

"This may be what he needed," Houk said. "It seems like every time he made a bad pitch, it cost him."

Dobson now is 7-4 for the season while loser Siebert's record sank to 6-11.

Houk said Murcer's home run slump wasn't bothering him because "we faced nine left-handers in a row during one stretch—he'll get his homers."

The game may have meant a bull-pen demotion for Siebert, who was reached for six hits in 2 1-3 innings. He has been bothered by shoulder problems.

"Sonny has been very erratic. I'm toying with the idea of putting him in the bull-pen to find himself," said Rangers Manager Whitey Herzog.

For the Rangers, it was their 10th loss in 11 games, and fans heavily booed the club.

One young lady went so far as to evade security police and pop into the doorway of the Yankees' dressing room.

That ended all interviews as the Yanks dived for cover.

Wilbur Wood Takes Turn for Worse

Remember this early season tongue twister:

How many wins can a Wilbur Wood win if a Wilbur Wood continues to win?

Well, forget it, cause Wilbur Wood's season has taken a twist for the worse.

Wood, the Chicago White Sox knuckleballer whose early season victory count made experts wonder if he'd win 30 games, suffered his 18th defeat to go with 20 victories Sunday.

He may soon be seeing 20-20.

The Baltimore Orioles knocked Wood out of the game in the second inning and went on to win their seventh straight game, 8-2.

Elsewhere in the American League, Cleveland took a pair from Minnesota, 5-3 and 4-3; Boston edged Kansas City 4-3; Oakland beat Milwaukee 6-4; New York topped Texas 6-2, and Detroit nipped California 4-3 in 11 innings.

Tigers 4, Angels 3

Reliever Aurelio Monteagudo unleashed a two-out, 11th inning wild pitch and Mickey Stanley raced home with the winning run, lifting the Detroit Tigers to a 4-3 victory over the California Angels.

Detroit's other runs came on solo homers by Frank Howard, Tony Taylor and Stanley.

A's 6, Brewers 4

Sal Bando put the pressure on Kansas City and took it off Reggie Jackson and Deron Johnson.

His two-run homer in the last of the ninth gave the Oakland A's a 6-4 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers, increasing their lead over second-place Kansas City to three games.

Jackson, with 30 homers and 101 RBI, has been carrying the A's lately but Sunday it was Johnson's turn. He belted the second grand-slam homer of his career in the first inning.

Jim "Catfish" Hunter returned to the A's rotation, making his first start since injuring his thumb in the All-Star game. He threw 70 pitches, 47 in the strike zone.

Indians 5-4, Twins 3-3

Buddy Bell slugged a three-run homer in the fifth inning of the first to break up a 2-2 deadlock

In the second game victory for the Indians, Leo Cardenas legged out an infield hit while Jack Brohamer scored the winning run with two out in the bottom of the ninth.

Red Sox 4, Royals 3

Bill Lee, after six tries, won his 13th game as he bested the Royals 4-3 with help from reliever Bob Bolin.

Lee, whose 12-3 record at the All-Star break earned him a place on the AL team, got run-scoring singles from Luis Aparicio and Rick Miller and an RBI double from Danny Cater. The decisive Red Sox run scored in the seventh on an error.

Olga Flashes Her Style

Olga Captures Four Golds

MOSCOW (UPI) — Petite Olga Korbut, the pigtailed princess of gymnastics, loomed even larger than the overall might of her Soviet countrymates and the U.S. men's basketball team today after a three-gold medal performance in the seventh World University Games.

Miss Korbut, pink ribbons draping her blonde pigtails, gathered in golds on the uneven bars, balance beam and free exercise events Sunday in helping the Soviets to a near insurmountable total of 36 only halfway through the games.

With the Russians adding 20 gold medals, Romania picked up one each in track, gymnastics and Greco-Roman wrestling to move into a far-distant second place. Cuba was third with two golds and the United States, despite the brilliance of its basketball team, has yet to win one.

The American cagers clobbered France 137-43—the fourth straight game they have won by that sort of a margin.

Flipping freely in her controversial backward somersault, the tiny Miss Korbut wowed the packed house at the gymnastics arena by taking the uneven bars by a decisive margin and the balance beam with 19.45 points of a possible 20. She then danced gaily to a third gold in the free exercise before settling for a bronze in the vault.

All was not lost in the latter event for the Soviets as Olga's teammate, Lubov Bogdanova, took the gold.

Equally as devastating, but certainly not as eye-catching, were the U.S. men cagers who manhandled France in the same fashion they previously put away Britain, Sweden and Portugal.

With Providence's Marvin Barnes leading the way with a game-high 27 points, the Americans scored 12 straight baskets during one first half spurt and crushed the outclassed French with six players hitting in double figures.

"I think we scared some people with that first half show," an obviously pleased Coach Ed Badger said. "We're playing seriously now. I don't think I've ever seen a team produce a better 20 minutes of play."

Joining Barnes in the scoring were North Carolina State's Mutt and Jeff duo of 7-4 Tom Burleson (16) and 6-3 David Thompson (16), Marquette's Maurice Lucas (18), Virginia's Wally Walker (16) and Indiana's Quinn Buckner (14).

In track and field, which has turned into a Russia versus the World dual meet, the Soviets picked up two golds, giving them a total of 11 of a possible 19 there.

The Soviet's Leonid Saveliev overtook fading Boualom Rahoui of Algeria on the final lap to take the 3000 meter steeplechase in 8:26.5. Saveliev's teammate Mikhail Bariban then added a second gold by winning the triple jump with a leap of 56 feet 5¼ inches for a new University Games record. Viktor Saneyev, the Soviet world record holder, was second.

Romania got its track and field gold in the women's high jump on Virginia Ioan-Boncis' leap of 6 feet ½ inch, and Poland pulled off the day's only surprise in the decathlon when Ryszard Skworonek upset the Soviet's Olympic champ and world record holder, Nikolai Avilov. Skworonek accumulated a total of 7,965 points to Avilov's 7,903.

Stewart Is Edging Closer To Another World Title

By BLOYS BRITT

Husky Butch Hartman won two stock car races in four days, Britisher Brian Redman and South African Jody Scheckter continued their battle for the L&M Formula 5000 title and Scotland's Jackie Stewart edged closer to his third world driving championship in a full weekend of auto racing.

Hartman, a 31-year-old truck dealer from south Zanesville, Ohio, won short track events at Milwaukee Thursday and Sunday to pad his lead in the standings for a third consecutive driving title in the United States Auto Club's stock car division.

In the process, he picked up about $12,000 in prize money, dropped runnerup Ramo Stott close to 200 points down in the standings and proved he is perhaps the most overlooked professional race driver in America.

Redman, a crack member of Ferrari's team in world endurance racing, won his third L&M Formula 5000 race of the season, beating 1972 Indianapolis winner Mark Donohue by 28 seconds in a $50,000 event at Road Atlanta, near Gainesville, Ga., Sunday.

Scheckter, a 23-year-old sophomore sensation, placed fourth behind Redman, Donohue and Britisher Peter Gethin.

Redman picked up $15,250 for Sunday's win, making his total for the season $84,300. Scheckter leads the money list with just over $112,000.

Amsterdam Wins Legion Laurels

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Bergen Post 39 of Amsterdam beat Depew Post 1528, 6-2, Saturday to capture the New York State American Legion baseball championship.

Mark Haver started the scoring with a first inning homer for Amsterdam. Amsterdam added single runs in the second and third innings before getting three runs in the fourth off pitcher Dave Keicher.

Depew's reliefer, Ed Witaszek, shut out Bergen for the rest of the game. Depew got its runs in the third with both runs batted in by a double by Greg Rogers.

Mike Wedrychowicz got the win.

Amsterdam plays West Hartford, Conn., in Middletown, Conn., in the beginning of national Regional competition Wednesday.

Repeat Win For DeGraff

KINGSTON

Does Ted DeGraff have a secret weapon?

A few owners of battered automobiles and some of the 4,000 strong crowd at Dietz Stadium Saturday night may well have asked themselves that question. However he does it — secret weapon or just a highly developed sense of survival — DeGraff did it again Saturday, winning his third consecutive Demolition Derby.

DeGraff gave warning in the first heat, crashing and grinding his way to victory in the preliminary event to become one of the ten finalists. He took the feature by outlasting Kingston's Mike Andrews, the second heat winner.

From the third heat, Gary Stokes and George Mongomery, both of Bloomington, survived to make the finals. The were joined by Dave Hughes and Dick Cantwell, also of Kingston, who placed in the fouth heat, and fifth heat winner and runnerup, Bob Sickler of Kingston and Allen Tyler of Bloomington.

Completing the feature field were Wanda Becker of Kingston, runnerup in the first heat and one of four distaff pilots, and Dennis Leone of Catskill, runnerup in the second heat.

This was the second and final Derby to be held here this year. DeGraff won the earlier battle and Kingston's initial spectacular a year ago.

The case of the disappearing paycheck and what to do about it.

Some people learn the hard way. Paychecks disappear fast.

Day-to-day living expenses eat up a lot. And maybe part goes in the savings account for this year's vacation or another immediate goal.

A good chunk of that money seems to disappear by itself.

So it's no wonder that when it comes to long-term goals, or when an emergency comes up, there simply aren't funds to meet the need.

Unless there was a nest egg building up all that time.

A good way to build that nest egg is with U.S. Savings Bonds. The easy way to buy them is to sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. An amount you specify will be set aside from your paycheck and used to buy Bonds.

And while you're going through grocery bills, car repairs, vacation weekends, kids' toys and nights out on the town, you'll know you're saving money too.

That's good to know.

Now E Bonds pay 5½% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Giants-Jets Thriller Had Everything

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) —The New York Giants' 45-30 pre-season victory over the New York Jets Sunday was a fan's dream and a coach's nightmare.

The game between the two unbeatens featured nine touchdowns, three field goals and 897 yards total yardage between the two clubs. Also thrown in were seven interceptions and three fumbles.

"We made a lot of mistakes", understated winning coach Alex Webster. "I honestly didn't expect that kind of game. I thought it would be more defense-oriented. I guess I was wrong."

"I thought we caught some bad breaks," Jet coach Weeb Ewbank said. "We were in a position to win and things turned against us."

The position to win came early in the fourth quarter when Al Woodall, who turned in a fine performance in relief of the injured Joe Namath, moved the Jets to the Giants' 17. The Jets trailed 24-23 at that point and were moving well against a disorganized Giant defense. Woodall dropped back to pass, was hit as he brought his arm up by Jack Gregory and saw the ball pop into the air. Defensive end Carter Campbell grabbed it and took off down the sidelines for an 82-yard touchdown run and a 31-23 lead.

Less than a minute later, Woodall was hit by Dan Goich as he raced to his left and his pass was intercepted by linebacker Jim Files, who returned it 22 yards for a score. Spider Lockhart's 77-yard interception return late in the game set up the Giants' final score, a short plunge by Rocky Thompson.

"I just saw the ball pop up in front of me and I grabbed it and took off," Campbell said. "That's the longest I've ever run—even in practices."

Woodall entered the game when Namath suffered a bruised elbow late in the first half with the Giants leading 21-3. Woodall, who spent all of last season on the taxi squad after a disappointing training camp, immediately marched the Jets to one touchdown, threw a 72-yard TD pass to Rich Caster and set up Bobby Howfield's 18-yard field goal to leave the Jets just one point behind, 21-20, at the half.

Woodall also had a 32-yard TD pass to Jerome Barkum with nine seconds left.

Namath and Woodall combined for an astounding 600 yards in total offense. Namath, who described his injury as "a broken blood vessel in my elbow—nothing too serious"—hit eight 8-of-14 passes for 82 yards and Woodall hit 17-of-34 for 364 yards. Jim Nance led the running attack with 15 carries for 92 yards.

A capacity crowd of 70,874 at the Yale Bowl screamed in delight as the clubs marched up and down the field and the score could have been even larger. Three times Jet receivers dropped passes wide open in the end zone and two long Namath passes deep into Giant territory were nullified by holding penalties.

After the Jets had taken a 3-0 lead on Bobby Howfield's 48-yard field goal, the Giants strung together three touchdowns. Ron Johnson, who ran for 72 yards in his first game this year, scored the first TD on a two-yard run. Vin Clements plunged a yard for another TD and Norm Snead threw 31 yards to Bob Grim for the third.

Who owns Ohio? The Browns.

In the battle of Ohio, the Browns scored two touchdowns within 12 seconds and overcame a 6-3 Cincinnati edge late in the third period.

Frank Pitts raced 21 yards on an end-around play, putting Cleveland ahead 10-6. On the first play of the next series, defensive back Clifford Brooks stole a pass by Virgil Carter and ran it back 23 yards for another touchdown.

"There wasn't any doubt about it—they were superior," said a disappointed Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown. "They outplayed us—period."

San Diego grabbed a 7-0 lead in the first quarter on a 10-yard pass from John Unitas to Gary Garrison. But veteran John Brodie, making his 1973 debut, brought the 49ers back in the second quarter, hitting six of seven passes for 65 yards including a three-yard scoring toss to Jimmy Thomas.

A 12-yard field goal by Bruce Gossett late in the first half put the 49ers ahead to stay. They clinched it with three field goals in the final period by rookie Tom Wittum.

Saturday, the Chicago Bears tied the Miami Dolphins 9-9; the Minnesota Vikings edged the Kansas City Chiefs 13-10; the Dallas Cowboys beat the New Orleans Saints 24-14; the Green Bay Packers topped the Houston Oilers 33-14; the Baltimore Colts trimmed the Detroit Lions 32-28; the Denver Broncos defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 38-17; the Atlanta Falcons beat the New England Patriots 27-10, and the Oakland Raiders downed the Los Angeles Rams 163.

Thursday night, the Pittsburgh Steelers whipped the Philadelphia Eagles 7-3, and Friday night, the Washington Redskins dumped the Buffalo Bills 37-21.

The tie against the Bears Saturday stopped Miami's winning streak at 21 games. The Bears' Mac Percival and the Dolphins' Garo Yepremian each kicked three field goals, and Percival missed a 35-yarder with just over four minutes to go that would have ended Miami's unbeaten skein.

"We're not feeling any pressure," contended Miami Coach Don Shula. "We realize that every team coming in—like the Bears—wants to beat us.

Clowns Top Braves In Dietz Contest

KINGSTON

The Indianapolis Clowns came up with four runs in the top half of the last inning Friday night to avert an upset at the hands of the Kingston Braves. The Clowns won the Dietz Stadium exhibition, 4-2.

Tom Gallo hung six consecutive zeroes on the scoreboard against the Clowns but the Braves' hurler couldn't stop the barrage in the seventh.

After posting single runs in the second and third innings, the Braves bats fell silent before Rich Shaw. Shaw fanned 10 batters and allowed six hits.

Joe Primo and Al Bonaguro drove in the Braves' runs. Primo doubled and Gallo tripled for the only extra base hits by the Kingston entry in the Mid-Hudson Valley Rookie League.

The fabulous Clowns were held down to six hits also but made theirs count by bunching them. Second baseman Ron Sindell had a double for the lone extra base smash off Gallo.

Wayne Bradley, John Smith, Bill Cozine and one-armed wonder Steve Anderson drove in the runs for the fabulous ones.

Famed clown entertainer "Bobo" did his one man show to music early in the game and drew tremendous crowd response for his showmanship. Equally popular was the performance Anderson gave playing first base, as he showed the form that has brought him recognition as the finest one-armed player in the game.

OTB Revenues Fall Short

NEW YORK(UPI)—City and state revenues from the citys' Off - Track Betting Corp. this year were about $10 million short of what OTB had anticipated, according to a state audit released Saturday.

In a mid-year review of the actual and budgeted financial results of the OTB operation for 1972-73, Comptroller Arthur Levitt said "revenues from OTB available for distribution were well below the amounts budgeted."

The budget anticipated that $23.9 million would be available for distribution to the city and state at mid-year, Levitt said, but the actual amount available was $13.5 million.

According to OTB officials, the principle factor for the poor showing was its inability to televise the races.

Van Aken and Bostic Head For Wiltwyck Showdown

KINGSTON

A classic showdown between two all-time Wiltwyck Golf Club greats — Harvey Bostic and Bill Van Aken — appears to be in the making, following opening play in he annual club championships.

Bostic swept past two opponents to advance to the semi-final round, with a 5 and 4 victory over Bill Marks and 7 and 6 decision over A. J. Maneen.

Van Aken got by the fast improving Bob Brown, 2 and 1, after leading by four holes at the end of nine in his first match. He then came back to polish off Robert Merritt, 4 and 3.

In order to set up what would be an extremely interesting championship finals, Bostic has to get by Jim Penrose and Van Aken faces a strong challenge from Jack Parnett in next Saturday morning's semi-finals.

Parnett advanced to the semis with a first round default from Frank Murray and 4 and 3 thumping of Brian Smith. Penrose ousted youthful Werner Kolln, 1 up, and then took out Harold Van Aken, 2 up.

In other first round matches, A. J. Maneen defeated Doug Tatara, 3 and 2; Harold Van Aken defeated Vic Hake, 3 and 2; Robert Merritt stopped George Cosenza, 5 and 3 and Brian Smith edged John Turck, 3 and 2.

BANGING OVER — Giants' running back Vin Clements (29) goes over for a touchdown in the second quarter of the game with the Jets in the Yale Bowl, Sunday. Greg Larson (53) helped pave the way as Jets Burgess Owens (22) and Chris Farasopoulos (19) move in. (UPI)

Sir Dalrae: 10 in Row

By United Press International

Sir Dalrae's 10th consecutive victory and Spartan Hanover's upset win in Roosevelt's American Trotting Championship highlighted harness racing's weekend.

With Jim Dennis in the sulky Sir Dalrae set a Maywood Park track record of 1:56 4-5 in winning the $44,705 Pacing Series Final over Good Bye Columbus and Sterlings Hank. The trotter-turned pacer, who is marching unimpeded toward "Harness Horse of the Year" honors cut out his entire mile to return $2.60 through the mutuels. The Californian's time was the third fastest race mile in history on a half-mile track and was his 15th triumph in 18 decisions this season.

Spartan Hanover squeezed out a head victory in a four-horse photo to qualify for next Saturday's $150,000 Roosevelt International Trot. Spartan, handled by Billy Haughton, made a big move in the stretch to ease past the mare Delmonica Hanover, Savoir and Flower Child in the 1¼ mile American Trotting Championship. Spartan Hanover, who paid $12 to win, covered the long distance in 2:34. Both Spartan and Delmonica qualified for the 15th International, the world championshp of trotting.

J.R. Skipper, second in last week's Adios Pace, won a $15,000 Prix d'Ete prep at Blue Bonnets in 1:58 4-5, beating Smog, Canevin and Armbro Nesbit. The Montreal prep race, which had five contenders for next Sunday's $130,000 Prix d'Ete, found Ron Waples driving J.R. Skipper to a three-quarters length decision. Smog, with Harold (Sonny) Dancer subbing in the bike for bedridden uncle Stanley, led the field through the :58 second first half and was just beaten in the final few strides. The winner paid $8.

Developments this week did little to clear up the fuzzy Hambletonian picture. Heavy favorite Knightly Way, who won last weekend's Dexter Cup at Roosevelt, injured himself in his stall at Springfield, Ill. and was scratched from the historic Review Futurity.

Arnie Almahurst, the U.S. Trotting Association's preseason colt favorite for the $130,000 Hambletonian, won the $28,150 Review in straight heats of 2:00 and 2:01, both times beating Fairmont Hanover.

MacArthur from the Howard Beissinger Stable, won his second straight added money race Saturday at The Meadows, beating Keystone Wart and Placate in 2:04 1-5. "Mac," piloted by Beissinger's German-born assistant Mike Zeller, returned $6.40.

Big Jim Wins Soap Box Derby

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) —His friends call him "Big Jim" and although he stands only 4-foot-11, James Gronen lived up to his nickname Saturday.

The 14-year-old from Boulder, Colo., defeated 11-year-old Bret Yarborough of Elk Grove, Calif., in the final heat to capture the 36th running of the All-American Soap Box Derby.

After posting the day's fastest time of 27:48 seconds in his opening heat, Gronen steered his sleek green racer down the 953.75-foot track to six more victories, including the final dash that won him a $7,500 scholarship.

"It's a wonderful, shocking feeling," said the champion when he was handed the large championship trophy.

Jim's uncle, Robert Lange of Boulder, escorted the champion to Akron and Lange was all smiles just as he was a year ago when his son, Robert Jr., took the 1972 Derby title.

It was the first back-to-back titles for a city since this city had winners in 1948 and again in 1949.

Seventeen girls who had won local events to gain the trip to the finals here made a fine showing at the annual event. Ten made it through the first round and two placed in the top eight.

Chris Noyes of Ossining, N.Y., who edged Zoller in a photo finish to gain the finals, finished fourth; Ken Cirimelli of San Jose, Calif., was fifth; Jeff Etchison of Anderson, Ind., seventh, Jon Angel of Winston-Salem, N.C., who won three photo finishes, was eighth, and John Lee of Columbia, Ga. was the ninth in the standings for scholarship awards.

Smith, Hevesi Heading For Tourney Showdown

KINGSTON

Third-seeded Dick Smith and veteran Joe Hevesi headed for a showdown in the Men's Singles division of the Ulster County Tennis Tournament as each picked up a decisive victory Sunday at Forsythe Park.

Smith walloped Jim Boyd, 6-2, 6-1 while Hevesi posted his third straight win, 6-4 6-0 over Bill Carr. Jerry Leatherman also advanced, topping Tony Badalato in a wacky battle that saw each player win a 6-0 set. Leatherman triumphed in a hard-fought, 7-5 rubber to earn the right to face fourth-seeded Dick Little.

Top seeds in the men's doubles also cruised. The top-rated Zeeh brothers, Bill and Pete, whipped Rob Kline and Don Williams, 6-3, 6-0; the No. 2 pair of Dick Smith and Dick Little eliminated Rich Rumble and Phil Bosch, 6-2, 6-1; and third-seeded Tom Provenzano and Ron Woods stopped Tony Badalato and Rich Griffen, 6-3, 6-3.

Peggy and Chip Grover moved into the quarter finals of the mixed doubles with an upset win over the second seeded team of Sandy Dunn and Pete Zeeh. Taking the first set 7-5, the Grover team wrapped it up 6-4 and won the right to meet Tony and Barbara Badalato.

In other mixed doubles action, Judy and Hank Sykes also nailed down a quarter final berth by turning back Mary Lynn Bock and Ron Schoonmaker, 6-4, 6-2, and Harry Bubnack and Mary Jo Avery outclassed Barbara Fite and Belmont Towbin, 6-3, 6-0.

Barbara Badalato lived up to her second seed and put on a strong show in defeating Barbara Tochterman in the women's singles. Badalato rolled to a 6-1, 6-0 win and now stands one match away from the finals.

Jules Viglielmo and Walter Brighton gained the finals of the senior men's doubles by upsetting the top-seeded team of Belmont Towbin and Bernard Needles. The winners triumphed easily, 6-1, 6-2.

Mahogany Ridge Retains Lead in B Softball

SAUGERTIES

Mahogany Ridge B won two out of three games to remain atop the B Division of the Saugerties Softball League but that one loss enabled Orville and Arlene's to tie them in the loss column and move within one game of first place.

Mahogany Ridge disposed of Ted's Exxon 12-2 and Sperl's Pakkers 8-0 but lost a return tilt with Ted's 5-4, in eight innings. Meanwhile, Orville and Arelene's kept pace with a 4-1 triumph over the Fire Department.

Dick Miller had two triples and four rbi's to lead the rout of Ted's for MRB. Harold Swart picked up the win with a three-hitter.

Rich Lareau singled home the winning run in Ted's upset of the front-runners. Miller hit another triple for the losers.

Swart shut out the Pakkers on eight hits, as Bill Perks, Grant Curm and John Speirs packed the attack with two hits each.

Mouse Wolven spun a two-hitter to defeat the Fire Department. He also knocked out a single and a double and Gordy Freligh added three singles to the winning cause.

Orville and Arlene's has three games left on the schedule, including a crucial encounter with MRB. The Ridge has only that one game to play and can clinch the pennant with a victory.

Sandra Tops In St. Paul

By JOHN KNUDSEN

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — The largest LPGA gallery in history saw Sandra Palmer and Jane Blalock duel to the finish Sunday in the final round of the $30,000 St. Paul Ladies Open Golf Tournament.

LPGA officials and the tourney's sponsor, the St. Paul Jaycees, said a record 13,500 fans attended Sunday's final round. They said nearly 30,000 spectators attended the three-day event.

Miss Palmer, of Forth Worth, Tex., took a one-stroke lead over Miss Blalock on the 15th hole of the final round and went on to record a 2-under-par 71 and a 10-under score of 209 for the 54-hole tournament. She earned $4,500 for her one stroke victory.

After five birdies on the front nine, Miss Blalock bogeyed two of the final nine holes to shoot a 3-under par 70. She and Judy Rankin, who had the same score in the final round, tied for second place at 210. Each won $2,995.

Deadlocked for fourth were rookie Roberta Albers, who had a final round 72 and Gail Denenberg, who shot a 71 Sunday, to finish at 213.

Veteran Carol Mann, Sandra Spuzich and 18-year-old Laura Baugh were deadlocked in a sixth place tie with scores of 216. Miss Baugh fell to a 74 Sunday after sub-par rounds Friday and Saturday.

"I really didn't think I was hitting the ball too well," Miss Palmer said after her victory, "but the 11th hole really picked me up."

The Texas veteran recorded a birdie three on the 11th after her second shot landed a foot from the pin. Miss Blalock, of Portsmouth, N.H., bogeyed the hole, putting the two in a tie for the lead at 10-under.

"I think the key to my victory was the 17th hole," Miss Palmer said.

She hit a shot from the right bunker which allowed her to par the 400-foot hole after taking the lead on the 15th.

Misses Blalock and Palmer congratulated each other after the final round which saw the mercury hit 90 degrees.

"Jane and I are really good friends," the Fort Worth golfer said.

"At least I hope we are after today," she laughed.

"Seriously, Jane played very well. She played the front nine as good as anyone will, and she did help me out with some advice on the tees."

Miss Blalock, who was Friday's first-round leader, said, "I have no regrets. Sandra knew I was struggling from the 11th hole on and she capitalized on my mistakes."

Bi-Valley Sets Tourney Trials

HYDE PARK

Five Bi-Valley Swim League teams will vie for the championship here Tuesday and Wednesday. Time trials will be Tuesday morning with finals scheduled for Wednesday morning.

League leading Red Hook is the defending champion and face the challenge of Pawling, Hyde Park, Middletown and Marlboro. About 250 swimmers between the ages 7-13 are expected to compete.

Since each league victory in dual competition earns 10 points toward the final standings, the Sea Raiders, who finished the regular season 7-1, will enter the meet with 70 points.

A swimmer is only allowed to participate in three individual events and one relay race in the championship. There is a 75-cent entry fee to cover trophy and medal costs.

Individual events will be scored 7-5-4-3-2-1 and relays 14-10-8-6-4-2. Team trophies will be awarded to the first three teams.

The public is invited to attend the event at the outdoor facilty on Route 9G in Hyde Park.

TWO FACES OF LANNY WADKINS who came from behind to take the USI Classic at Pleasant Valley Country Club in Sutton, Mass., Sunday. Wadkins finished birdie, eagle, birdie to finish at 279, nine-under-par for the tournament, and claimed the $40,000 first prize. (UPI)

Wadkins Mapping Grandiose Plans

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI) — Lanny Wadkins is thinking big: big money, big names and certainly, big-time golf.

He'd like to win four tournaments a year. He'd like to finish in the top 10 moneywinners on the Professional Golfers Association tour. And young Lanny Wadkins, 23, would like to meet the Golden Bear, Jack Nicklaus, just once in head-to-head match play.

Brash? No. Confident? Yes.

Wadkins won his second tourney of the year Sunday by a two-stroke margin over Rik Massengale, Tom Jenkins and Lee Elder in the $200,000 USI Classic at Pleasant Valley Country Club.

In 1972 Wadkins established a new record for a first-year player on the PGA tour by earning $116,616. The $40,000 first prize here put him in fourth place on the 1973 money list with $188,914—already a new record for a sophomore year.

"I don't really have a schedule set for myself," Wadkins said after finishing the USI with a 69 for a nine-under-par tournament total of 279. "My big goal this year was to improve on last year and finish in the top 10 money winners. I think I've already done that.

"I would like to win four tournaments," he said. "It'd be tough for a guy my size (5-foot-8 and 160 pounds) to win more than four in a year. It's the physical strain. Guys like Tom Weiskopf, Bruce Crampton and Jack Nicklaus are all pretty strong guys. I can't grind it out week after week like Crampton does. And I'm a young guy. I don't want to burn myself out."

As for Nicklaus, Wadkins said "I'd like to get hold of big Jack in match play." Then he flashed a grin. "I suppose he'd like to get hold of me, too."

Wadkins wrapped things up Sunday with a birdie-eagle-birdie stretch on the 10th, 11th and 12th holes. He had entered the final round three strokes off the three-round pace set by Massengale.

"That was an awful big stretch for me," Wadkins said. "I had been putting kind of erratic. They were coming in streaks. I had a few good ones yesterday (Saturday) and then those three right in the middle today."

Wadkins sank a four-footer for a birdie on the 10th hole, a 25-footer on No. 11 and a 12-footer on the 12th.

His only trouble from that point on was a double bogey on the 230-yard, par 3 14th hole. "My foot slipped and I went to the right with the shot. It was the only green I missed all day."

Massengale gave him a brief scare on the 18th hole. Shooting for a birdie that could have forced a sudden-death playoff, Massengale was a bit too strong with a 30-foot putt, then missed a two-footer and settled for a bogey that dropped him into the second place tie.

Wadkins, who has now won three tournaments in two years on the tour, said he seems to play his best golf when he enters the final round three or four strokes back of the leader.

"I've won two from three shots back and one from four shots back," he said. "That seems like a good place to be."

Massengale shot a two-over par 74 on the 7,212-yard course Sunday to finish with a 281. Jenkins carded a 71 and Elder had a 69, his best round of the tourney. Bobby Mitchell and Jim Wiechers had 282s and Roy Pace, Bert Yancey and Miller Barber were at 283.

Pre-tourney favorites Bruce Crampton and Lee Trevino ended up at 286, tied for 15th place with six others.

Ben Crenshaw, making his debut as a professional after becoming the first man ever to win three straight NCAA championships, was tied for 34th at one-over-par 289. He earned $903.33 for the effort.

Jay Robinson Top-Seeded

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (UPI) — Jay Robinson of Los Angeles captured 11 of his 16 match games Sunday to clinch the top-seeded position for today's finals of the $55,000 Columbia Open Bowling Tournament.

Robinson, trying for his second tournament victory this year, showed a gross pinfall of 9715 for the 42-game event.

The stocky righthander leads a five-man advance into the finale, where the winner will receive $6,000 after four one-game elimination matches.

Marty Piriano, Syracuse, N. Y., who defeated Robinson 226-203 in the 24th and final match game, was the second seed. Earl Anthony, Tacoma, Wash., Norm Meyers, St. Louis, Mo., and Mike Berlin, Muscatine, Iowa, had the third, fourth and fifth spots, respectively.

Robinson who won a tournament at Denver earlier this year, won six matches in Sunday's opening eight-game block, then came back with five more wins in the evening session for a 53-pin advantage over Piriano at the end of semifinal play.

But Anthony, a six-time champion, put on one of the best bowling displays of the night. Sixth entering the last game, he shot his way into the finals with a 299, missing a 300 on his 12th and final shot when the six pin refused to fall on a perfect pocket ball.

Meyers dropped one position when he lost to Berlin, 197-192, in their last game.

In the finals, Meyers goes against Berlin, with the high scorer advancing to a match with Anthony. The winner of that game will meet Piriano and the high man there faces Robinson for the championship.

A Refusal By Foreman

TOKYO (UPI) — World heavyweight champion George Foreman today refused to attend a contract signing ceremony for his first title defense, Sept. 1, because he did not want to see challenger Joe "King" Roman of Puerto Rico until fight time.

Foreman's trainer-manager Dick Sadler signed the contract at the ceremony at the Tokyo Prince hotel where Foreman is staying.

"Foreman is not coming to this ceremony," Sadler said before leaving. "He only wants to see Roman in the ring on Sept. 1."

Bill Daly, Roman's manager, told Sadler, "we hope Foreman will be there."

It marked the first time in Japan that a fighter did not appear at the customary contract-signing ceremony.

Some 50 Japanese boxing writers, cameramen and boxing officials were stunned by Foreman's action. A representative of Nippon Education Television (NET) had said that Foreman was in his room at the hotel and would be delayed in making his appearance.

Suddenly, Sadler accused Roman and Daly of "messing up" Foremans' training Monday afternoon at the Tokyo Boxing gym. "They had no business to come and it was not the right thing to do," Sadler said.

Sadler protested and ordered Roman and Daly to leave the gym.

"We don't care if any Foreman man comes to see Roman train," Daly said. "In New York, they sent a spy over for three days and we welcomed him.

Sadler denied sending any spies to watch Roman at his training in New York.

Ricardo Allehandro of Mexico, the World Boxing Council (WBC) junior lightweight champion, and challenger Morito Kashiwaba of Japan signed their contracts for their 15-round bout on the double world title match card. This will follow the Foreman-Roman fight which is scheduled to start at 12:30 p.m. (11:30 p.m. edt, Aug. 31.)

Roman, who arrived here Saturday, appeared with Daly at the gym Monday after Foreman had boxed a round each with sparring mates Larry Frazier of California, Henry Harris of Kingston, Jamaica and Len Hutchins of Kalamazoo, Mich.

Carole Semple Champion

WEST ORANGE, N. J. (UPI) —Carole Semple of Sewickley, Pa., overcame a three-hole deficit Saturday afternoon to defeat three-time winner Mrs. Ann Sander in the U. S. Women's Amateur golf championship.

Miss Semple's one-up triumph was highlighted by a tee shot on the seventh hole which landed two inches from the cup. She then went on to birdie the next hole with a six-foot putt and birdied the 10th evening the match.

Mrs. Sander of Seattle, Wash., came back on the 11th hole and took a one-hole advantage while shooting par.

Miss Semple's second shot on the hole went over the green. They halved the next three holes and Miss Semple tied the match when she sank a two-foot putt for a par.

She then went ahead on the 17th hole when she was on in two and two-putted for her par. On that hole, Mrs. Sander was in the rough and on her second shot she pulled it badly into the trees.

Mrs. Sander's shot on the green fell short. She then chipped on to within 25 feet and two-putted for a double bogey. She went one down for the first time in the afternoon round and when the final hole was halved, Miss Semple won the match.

Romanian Cup Players Knew What to Expect

By ERIC PREWITT

ALAMO, Calif. (AP) — The Romanians knew when they were beaten against the U.S. Davis Cup doubles team of Stan Smith and Erik van Dillen Sunday.

Cristea Caralului, captain of the Romanian squad, said before the matches began at Round Hill Country Club here that Nastase had the only chance to win on the fast concrete court and that the team "might be able to lose 3-2."

So far, he has been correct. The first three matches were all won in straight sets, with Smith beating Toma Ovici 7-5, 6-1, 6-3, and Nastase handling Marty Riessen 6-2, 6-4, 6-2 in Saturday's play.

Sunday, Smith and Van Dillen teamed to defeat Nastase and Lionel Santeiu in the doubles match 6-2, 7-5, 6-2, giving the U.S. a 2-1 lead. The Americans need only win one of today's two singles matches to win the series.

Riessen can clinch it by beating Ovici in today's first match. If he loses, Smith will have to top Nastase in the finale, which pairs the two men who are generally rated one-two in the tennis world this year.

The Round Hill stadium was about 90 per cent sold out over the weekend, and a full-house crowd of 6,000 was expected today. The big attraction is the first Smith-Nastase match of the year, even though it might be anti-climactic.

"I don't know how it will affect me," said Smith when asked how he would regard the match if a U.S. team victory already is certain. "I've never played in a situation like that before."

The U.S. team is shooting for a sixth straight Davis Cup title. With a victory today, the Americans would go on to Cleveland for the first indoor challenge round in history, with Australia or Czechoslovakia the opponent.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) —Manuel Orantes, riding a hot streak which has seen him a finalist in his last three tournaments and winner in two, won the men's title Sunday in the $90,000 Clay Court tennis championships.

Chris Evert, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., successfully defended the women's title she won a year ago.

Orantes, of Spain, stumbled momentarily in the first and third sets of his match before ousting George Goven of France, 6-4, 6-1, 6-4. He had to overcome Goven's 4-2 advantage in the first set and 2-0 lead in the third.

But Goven, who was extended to three sets to beat two-time champ Cliff Richey, Sarasota, Fla., Saturday, tired noticeably. The game Frenchman practically defaulted, but rallied to make a match early in the third set.

Miss Evert, 18, was unnerved a bit in her match with unheralded Veronica Burton of England. But she rallied after trailing in both sets to win the match, 6-4, 6-3.

Miss Burton, 21, had Miss Evert down, 4-2 in the first set, but Chris shut out the Englander in the next four games. Down 3-2 in the second, Miss Evert again responded with a strong baseline game to blitz four straight games.

Ironically, Miss Burton used lobs and baseline play to put her opponent in the hole in the first place. But Miss Evert proved her mastery over the slow, defensive tactics which has put her into the last two Wimbledon finals.

Orantes, who was runner-up at Cincinnati in the Western Championships earlier this month and a winner at Louisville before that, won $10,000 for his first Clay title. Miss Evert picked up $6,000 for her win. Runners-up awards were half those of the winners.

HAVERFORD, Pa. (UPI) — Mike Estep of Dallas, Tex., won his first major tournament Sunday by defeating Gene Scott of New York 7-5, 3-6, 7-6, 3-6, 7-5 in the $25,000 Pennsylvania Lawn Tennis Championship at the Merion Cricket Club.

The Rice University graduate and former U. S. Junior champion won three straight games in taking the first set. Scott, the national 35-and-over champion, squared the match with a run of three games from 3-3 in the second set.

Estap and Scott split the next two sets and the 24-year-old winner scored a service ace in reaching 6-5 in the fifth set. He won the match by taking Scott's service at love with a cross court return of service for a placement. Estep won the final set five games at love.

Estep collected $5,000 for the win and Scott gained $2,800.

Australians Colin Dibley and Allan Stone won the doubles championship 7-6, 6-3 over Fred McNair of Bethesda, Md., and Jeff Austin of Rolling Hills, Calif. The winners collected $1,200.

Linda Rupert of Bethlehem, Pa., and Sally Greer of Miami, Fla., won the U. S. Women's Amateur Grass Court doubles championship with a 6-4, 2-6, 6-2 win over Terry Holladay of San Diego, Calif., and Susan Hagey of La Jolla, Calif.

Legion Scores Over Turk's

KINGSTON

In the top of the first extra inning, Frank Falatyn slammed a triple and Kevin Jordan brought him home with a single as the American Legion rallied for a pair of runs and hung on to defeat Turk Construction, 5-3, in an American Babe Ruth League contest.

Jordan's RBI hit was the fourth of the day for the victors, but it was enough to boost Jordan to a complete-game victory. He bested Mike McWeeney's losing effort by scattering four hits himself, all singles, while striking our eight and giving up six walks.

Turk's took the lead in the fifth with a pair of runs that gave McWeeney a 3-1 advantage, but the Legion came back in the sixth and again in the seventh to knot the score. Ten walks were McWeeney's undoing as his teammates didn't commit an error in his support.

Astros Photograph New Storm

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab 2 astronauts photographed Tropical Storm Brenda from space on Sunday as the mass of wind and clouds churned across the Yucatan Peninsula toward the Gulf of Mexico.

Astronauts Alan L. Bean, Jack R. Lousma and Dr. Owen K. Garriott were awakened a few minutes early to photograph the storm with film and television cameras as their orbiting laboratory passed 271 miles over the Mexican coast.

Lousma also searched for a leak in an air conditioning system aboard the spacecraft.

Garriott, the first solar physicist in space, spent most of the day operating a battery of solar telescope cameras studying the sun.

When Lousma got out a tool kit to begin his repair chores, Mission Control passed up instructions about where to look for the leak. These included directions for removing several wall panels.

A coolant liquid is leaking slowly from the primary air conditioning system aboard Skylab. A secondary system, however, is working well and officials said there is no great concern over the problem.

The astronauts Sunday were in the 33rd day of their record 59-day mission.

It's a question of maturity.

A lot of people don't buy U.S. Savings Bonds because they think it takes them 10 years to mature. Take another look. The old green Bond ain't what it used to be. Now Bonds mature in less than 6 years.

That's one reason Bonds are so popular nowadays. They're simple to buy, and one of the surest ways to build a nest egg for something (or someone special.

U.S. Savings Bonds. Maturity at 5 years, 10 months. If you don't want to use that money right away, there's a 10-year extension privilege. Either way, you'll find that Bonds mature at just the right age for you.

Take stock in America.

Bonds mature in less than six years.

Your Horoscope

Tuesday, August 21

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have all sorts of interesting ideas that you can easily impart to others in a very logical manner. By so doing you can come to a better understanding and bring a new series of successes to your activities. Be forthright.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you have long conversations with associates, fine ideas will be formulated and excellent plans made for the future. Improve on transportation matters. Don't waste so much time.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Good day to meet with higher-ups who are able to help you solve a particular problem. Follow your hunches as well as your good judgment for ideal results. Be sure to dress in style.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Take steps to improve your health via proper treatments. Make business appointments that are important. Attending the social tonight can be to your advantage. Avoid extravagance.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Talk with a clever person who can help you gain your fondest aims. Listen carefully to the advice given you. Follow your intuition, but not your emotions and all works out fine.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Showing devotion to good friends can bring you many favors today. Try to bring out the best qualities in them instead of the worst. Make sure you don't take risks of any kind.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you join forces with influential persons you know, you can make big strides in civic affairs. Buy the appliances that add to your efficiency. Show more devotion to loved one.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Obtain the data you need and then carry through with a special plan you have in mind. Careful planning at this time can bring added income in the days ahead. Take it easy tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Scheduled your time well so you can take care of responsibilities without having to rush. A show of affection for mate brings results now. Forget any past resentments. Be wise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Meet with closest tie and discuss subjects uppermost on your minds and come to a far better understanding. Do the same with an associate and your relationship will improve.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can combine cleverness of mind with nimble fingers to get much accomplished today. Do something to make your wardrobe more charming. Get the right accessories. Use good taste.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Congenials will gladly join you in recreational activities that you enjoy. Find the right way to get your ideas of a creative nature approved by higher-ups. Think locically.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Getting busy and fixing up your abode so that it is more comfortable is wise. Make it as clean as you can. Your office or place of business could also use some sprucing up.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people with an agile mind and the ability to work well with the hands. This will bring considerable success in whatever the forte may be. Bigwigs will be attracted to your clever progeny early in life and give a boost where and when most needed. Many fine talents in this chart. Give religious training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU$

Timely Quotes

The last thing we need is some half-baked Hanoi Hilton in the Colorado mountains where cadets can play psychological tricks on each other.

—Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., labeling as "ghoulish" a proposal by the Air Force Academy to construct a mock prisoner of war camp on campus.

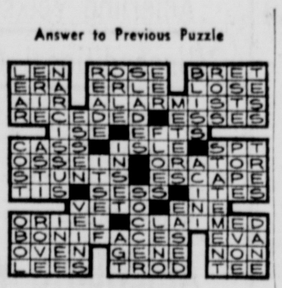

WHY WE SAY

BRASS RING: One who is a dead ringer for another looks identical. A ringer in English slang is something that is counterfeit. The term started from country fairs where brass rings were highly polished and passed off to gullible buyers as gold.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

THE END: (Q.) Going steady with Karen has got to be a drag. Going out is OK. We still have some fun. But going over to her house is a bore. I make up excuses not to go. It's not like it was when we started 10 months ago.

Karen has a bad inferiority complex and keeps saying she is no fun to be around. I tell her that isn't so, but I'm beginning to believe it is. What do you think? I'm 17 and she's 18.—No Thrill Now in Texas.

(A) Karen openly puts herself down in the hope that you will reassure her. This is a trait of one type of unconfident person.

You have been kind to her. But you are her boy friend, not a psychiatrist or psychologist. If you do not leave her now you may start saying unkind things to her and hurt her.

Tell her goodby. In doing so be as kind as you can. Talk about the good things you have seen and known together. But be definite. Say goodby.

UNASKED: (Q.) Please tell me how to get a bookworm's mind off books and onto dating. Two months ago I met a very attractive young man at college. He is concerned with me, but he is much more concerned with his books.

I thought a relationship meant going out. I know his courses are difficult, but my loneliness is difficult too. Sometimes I could throw a book at him. Please tell me what to do.—No Phone Calls in Pennsylvania.

(A.) You seem to think you and this young man have a "relationship." Maybe he doesn't think so. Maybe he doesn't even think about it.

Maybe he thinks you are only a nice girl he met and with whom he is friendly.

Let him know you like him seriously. Call him up and ask him to have lunch with you. Talk to him about himself. Ask him questions about himself. If he is positive and gets your message, do not ask him for too large a share of his time.

If he is negative, get the message yourself. Your romance was just in your mind and you built it up out of proportion. That often happens, you know, to both males and females.

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions or comments to Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001.)

Some Hope for TV Viewers

NEW YORK (AP) — Today is Miscellany Day, an occasion in which we clear the shelves of assorted items and brace for another week of whoopee. First up is a ray of hope for rerun-weary viewers.

There won't be any repeats of the Friday night "Midnight Special" pop music shows on NBC-TV. You'll continue seeing first-run broadcasts of the 90-minute program through February next year.

This is because NBC has renewed the show through February, the same month it began in 1973. It works out to a total of 52 new "Midnight Special" shows in all — and no repeats, according to NBC.

Today is a triple anniversary for Elmer Lower, the president of ABC News. The network says he's been president of its news division for 10 consecutive years, which is a broadcasting record.

The 60-year-old Lower, who also has worked for the NBC and CBS news divisions, started in journalism 40 years ago today and went into broadcast journalism on Aug. 20 two decades ago, ABC says.

Joseph Papp, the founder and head of the New York Shakespeare Festival, says he and ABC-TV are close to agreeing on terms for a series of dramatic specials the Festival would produce for the network. However, both he and ABC emphasize that nothing's been signed yet.

Papp, who in July 1972 signed a much-ballyhooed four-year contract to produce at least 12 specials for CBS, saw that deal fall apart after he lambasted the network for postponing "Sticks and Bones."

That bitter play, about the homecoming of a blinded Vietnam veteran, was postponed in March because CBS felt it might prove "unecessarily abrasive" if shown at a time U.S. prisoners of war were coming home.

It finally was shown last Friday, but in June CBS failed to renew Papp's option to produce new shows for the coming season. It declared him a "free agent" and he took his business elsewhere.

Now he says "we're in close negotiation with ABC and I would say it's more than likely that we would have an agreement shortly."

He says he thinks ABC's "major interest at this time is in contemporary works and I would be interested in finding original works for the medium if we can reach an agreement."

Martin Starger, in charge of ABC's entertainment division, says "there's been no deal yet. Joe and I have had several discussions and our talks are still going on.

"If we do agree on something, it would be for the 1973-74 season," he said, adding that it probably would be early in 1974 before any proposed shows actually get on the air.

Jim: "How about a week of really simple hands?"

Oswald: "Well here's one. South has a sound opening spade bid including a six-card suit. North has a perfect hand for a limit jump riase to three and most people would go so far as to bid three spades even if they played it as absolutely forcing."

Jim: "Some people might not get to the spade game but everyone would be playing some spade contract and the same principle of play is going to apply."

Oswald: "It might be described as the principle of leading up to strength, rather than away from it."

Jim: "West starts out by leading high clubs. South ruffs the third club lead and draws trumps. He can afford to play out a lot of trumps provided he hangs on to at least one. Then he can play diamonds, but eventually he will have to lead a heart."

Oswald: "When he does lead that heart, he must lead it from dummy. Once he does that he is sure to score his king of hearts and make four spades. That is, he is sure because East holds the heart ace. Give West that card and South would have to lose two tricks no matter how he played the suit."

REELECTION CAMPAIGN SPY—The Washington Star-News reported that woman journalist identified as Mrs. Lucianno Cummings Goldberg, 38, as having admitted she worked as a $1,000-a-week spy for President Richard Nixon's reelection campaign, posing as a reporter and traveling with the press entourage that accompanied Sen. George S. McGovern. Mrs. Goldberg who said she was recruited by long-time Nixon friend and political adviser Murray Chotiner, was quoted as saying the information sought was not political intelligence but "really dirty stuff—who was sleeping with who; what the Secret Service men were doing with the stewardesses; who was smoking pot on the plane—that sort of thing." Insurgents Begin Cambodia Offensive

PHNOM PENH (UPS) — Large insurgent forces began moving today toward two provincial capitals and terrorist bombings inside Phnom Penh coupled with new fighting outside the city signaled the apparent start of the long-feared rebel offensive in the country.

Military sources said three rebel regiments totaling roughly 4,500 men have approached to within six miles of Kompong Cham on the Mekong River 50 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

Kompong Cham is Cambodia's third major city after Phnom Penh and Battambang. Its prewar population of 30,000 has swelled to double or triple that number with the influx of refugees.

Near Kompong Speu, 30 miles southwest of the capital, a company of about 100 government troops three miles north of town was reported under attack by about 300 rebels led by a Hanoi-trained Cambodian rebel named Chau Sary, military sources said.

Gorernment armored vehicles were en route from Phnom Penh to the battle site near Kompong Ipeu, the sources said.

Three terrorist bombings Sunday hit crowded downtown Phnom Penh, quiet since last week's U.S. bomb halt, and field reports said fresh fighting broke out when a battalion of guerrilla troops advanced to within five miles of the capital. The situation raised fears the rebel drive to take the city appeared under way.

The bomb blasts, which killed four persons and wounded 64 others, were the first insurgent raids within the Cambodian capital since the United States ended its 4½-year air war over the country Wednesday.

High command sources said neither Kampong Cham nor Kompong Speu appeared in immediate danger of capture despite the large insurgent forces theatening the provincial capitals.

Other provincial towns around the country have been encircled by rebel soldiers for months, but since Wednesday's bomb halt there has been no reported insurgent attempt to overrun them.

Two national highways today remained open, at least to armed convoys, for their entire length—Highway 4 to the port of Kompong Som, 134 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, and Highway 5 to rice-rich Battambang, 182 miles northwest.

Sunday's bombing in Phnom Penh by guerrillas who apparently infiltrated the city disguised as refugees left a military post guarding the busy central market and two crowded movie houses blown up.

Field reports said Cambodian troops fired 100 rounds of 105 mm cannon shells into the jungles around Lake Bang Angkanh, five miles south of Phnom Penh, in a drive to halt the advancing rebel battalion.

Agnew Indictment Reported Near

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Time magazine reports that a federal grand jury, acting on reinforced allegations he received kickbacks on government contracts, is expected to indict Vice President Spiro T. Agnew next month.

The magazine said Sunday it had learned from sources a third Maryland contractor has told the Justice Department he gave kickbacks to Agnew.

The contractor was identified as Allen I. Green, 49, president of a Maryland engineering firm. He was reported to have told investigators that he gave kickbacks to Agnew about five times a year while Agnew was governor of Maryland in 1967-68 and on a reduced scale after Agnew became vice president in 1969.

Time said the grand jury "is expected to vote an indictment next month charging Agnew with, among other things, bribery and extortion." It quoted a Justice Department official as saying "the department has no choice. At least three witnesses have told of diverting cash payments to Agnew. The evidence is so strong that the case must be taken to trial."

Agnew has described the allegations made against him as "damned lies." Saturday night he appeared at a political rally at Centreville, Md., and pledged he would fight to establish his innocence. He also chastised annonymous news sources for improperly leaking reports on the investigation.

"They have no hesitancy at all about violating my civil rights or my constitutional rights — but I'll have more to say about that later," Agnew said. "Just let me say I intend to fight to establish my innocence of any wrongdoing."

He spoke at a rally for a Republican congressional candidate.

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson said in a television interview Sunday that he ultimately would decide if any evidence involving Agnew is taken before a federal grand jury investigating political corruption in Maryland if the vice president can be indicted while he is in office.

Richardson said he was not prepared yet to make either decision, and he refused to specualte about the outcome of the investigation involving the vice president. The attorney general said it still was not clear whether the Constitution would bar indictment of a vice president.

Richardson was interviewed on ABC's Issues and Answers.

Time said Agnew has asked White House lawyers to help prepare a constitutional argument that would prevent his going to trial in the near future. The magazine said Agnew has asked how he might adopt President Nixon's own defense that a president, or in this case, a vice president, cannot be prosecuted until after he is impeached, convicted and removed from office.

The investigation in Baltimore is being conducted by the U.S. district attorney's office, which is headed by George Beall, a Republican and brother of Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md. The investigators spent the weekend going over copies of Agnew's financial records, obtained from his office in Washington.

All nine federal judges in Maryland have disqualified themselves from handling the case. Over the weekend, the U.S. Court of Appeals in Richmond appointed Judge Walter E. Hoffman of the eastern district of Virginia to oversee any grand jury action involving the vice president.

Impeachment—McGovern Topic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. George S. McGovern says that if President Nixon defies a court order to release tapes of his Watergate-related conversations Congress will "have no other recourse" but to consider impeachment.

McGovern said Sunday he believed it was "premature" for anyone in Congress to be advocating impeachment at this time.

"But . . . if the President remains steadfast in his refusal to turn over the tapes, even if the courts hold that he has an obligation to do so, then the Congress will have no other recourse except to give serious consideration to impeachment."

McGovern said that when Nixon withheld the recordings and other material he made it "very hard for us to accept the argument that he advances that he had nothing to do either with the cover-up of the Watergate incident or its original planning."

Oral arguments are scheduled in federal court here Wednesday by attorneys representing the President and Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox in their dispute over disclosure of the tapes.

A decision on whether Nixon must comply with Cox's subpoenas for the recordings may come by the end of the week, but it is certain to be appealed.

Espionage Hinted In Airman's Arrest

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Air Force sergeant is in custody at McGuire Air Force Base after his arrest in New York City with a Russian diplomat, an Air Force source said Sunday night.

The source did not disclose the charge against the sergeant but said it involved secret papers.

Meanwhile, Time Magazine said in this week's issue that an Air Force technical sergeant has been confined at McGuire at Wrightstown, N.J., on preliminary charges of violating the Espionage Act.

Time said that when the sergeant was arrested, FBI agents searched his pockets and found keys to a rented car. The magazine said the car's trunk contained a plastic garbage bag filled with secret documents dealing with the Air Force and counterintelligence procedures, in addition to military data the U.S. had gathered about the Soviet Union.

The Air Force source said the sergeant, an 18-year veteran, has spent the last three years with the Office of Special Investigation. He was en route from Travis Air Force Base in California to another assignment when he stopped in New York, the source said.

The sergeant was arrested 10 days ago, the source said.

The Russian was attached to the Soviet Embassy in Washington, the source said, but there was no word on his identity or status.

The source said the sergeant had an unblemished record during his 18 years in the Air Force. He is married and has two children.

The FBI declined comment on the case, and spokesmen for the State Department and Justice Department said they had no information about it.
